

Art triumphs over disability at festival

By LINDA ANN CHOMY
Special Writer

Very Special Arts Southeast Michigan will present its third-annual festival to celebrate the power of artistic creativity over physical and mental challenges 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Friday and Saturday at Laurel Park Place mall, Six-Mile and Newburgh in Livonia.

Garden City, and the Schoolcraft Players, a chime choir from Redford.

Live musical and dance performances, hands-on art activities, demonstrations, and a statewide art exhibition spotlight the uplifting Very Special Arts programs shared throughout the year by children and adults with hearing, sight, mobility, emotional and development impairments.

"It's definitely something for the family. We're going to have visual art. They can enjoy the performance, learn about dance therapy, or make something," said festival co-chair, Connie Lett. "We want to invite schools from all over the area to come over and take a look."

Very Special Arts was founded for children and adults who could not participate in the sports of Special Olympics. The festival serves as a model for the ways that the arts can be used to integrate the disabled and non-disabled in cultural and educational activities, said Lett. It is part of a larger, ongoing program of year-round arts experiences taking place in schools and communities.

The Burger Choir will perform 10:30-11 a.m. Friday; the Schoolcraft Players 11:30 a.m. to noon Saturday. The 30 member choir is the only autistic choir in the country, and one of only two in the world.

Curbs the 'Craving' Chain

Herbal Formula Reduces Desire For Sweets

TALLAHASSEE - Researchers of Florida State University have published findings demonstrating that consumption of sweet foods are habitual; initial intake of sweets actually increases the desire for more sweet food. This vicious craving chain was curbed by the FSU researchers with an herbally derived taste modifier which reduces the desire for additional sweets without changing the flavor of food.

In taste perception tests, subjects using the herbal derivative, gymnemic acid, ate less than those not using it. The decreased desire for additional sweets resulted in an average of 20% fewer calories consumed. Carbohydrate and fat consumption also declined, resulting in weight loss. Published in Physiology and Behavior, the study demonstrates the heart control of sugar consumption results in better appetite management, often generating substantial weight loss.

The safe and effective herb is now available in an all natural form labeled called Beta-Tim. Rapidly gaining acceptance in pharmacies nationwide, Beta-Tim has become a tremendous discovery for dieters. An Oklahoma resident writes, "Beta-Tim helps me maintain my weight and I feel much better about myself." Another in Arizona, "noticed results right away...My pounds of work noticed the weight loss, now three of them are taking it."

Control your sweet tooth, naturally with Beta-Tim. Now available at:

- Maple Drugs
- Concord Drugs
- Richardsons Pharmacies
