The Bridge Crowd, Page 5H Fashion Calendar, Page 6H

SUBURBAN LIFE

THURSDAY, APRIL 29, 1993

'Life' is theme of annual ball

To leave a message for Gretchen Hitch, from a Touch-Tone phone, call 953-2047, Ext. 1828. Ma-terial for The Scene may be mailed to Hitch at 646 Kimberly, Birmingham 48009, or you may coll her at 646-5277.

Kimberly, Birmingham 48009, or you may cell her at 646-627.

celebration of life. That was the phrase speakers used several times to describe the eighth Crystal Rose Bell sponsored by the Hospice of Southeastern Michigan on Saturday evening at Neiman Marcus at the Somerest Collection in Troy.

Hospice Gouncil chairwoman Bev Moore greeted 550 arriving guests with her husband Tom. Preatient-elect Kathy Antonial arrived with her husband, Kmart CEO Josoph. Co-chairman and co-chairwoman of the evening Richard and Shelley Golden, both very tanned, were at the entrance. Their co-chairman and co-chairwoman, the Mort Crims, were cut of town.

Mary Fisher, Crystal Rose honoree, in a navy suit with a long skirt, chatted with friends in the throng on the Neiman Marcus first floor. I told Mary I remember her 2lst birthday when her guests rolled around town in a red British two-decker bus, with champagne flowing.

In the throng were Joe and Jane Muer, John and Annette Kolon, Jan and Pat Hartmann, John Bloom, Dick and Valerle Stratth (just back from Jupiter, Fla.), Rick and Joyce Inatome, Maryboth Decker, Lloyd and Maurcine Reuss, John and Nancy Burrows, Tim and Cindy Leuliette, and Islah and Lynn Thomas.

Irma Elder arrived with Claire Chambers. Judies Sherman, who was chairwoman for the norest ay Leuiette, and sian and Lynn Aromas.

Irma Elder arrived with Claire Chambers, Judie Sherman, who was chalrwoman for the profitable and handsome program book, tanked he committee of Maryboth Decker, Bev Moore, Linda Morrow, Shirley Littlefield, Dlane Brown and Debby Gacini.

Brown and Debby Gacini.
At 8 p.m. the assemblage moved to the second level for the program.

Mary Fisher, after receiving the crystal rose award, presented a moving and eloquent talk. "I don't want to squander this moment," adding, "Hospice makes it possible not to be alono—those of us who are walking into the valley of death." She recited the 22rd pealm and confided she found it strengthening. "Life is a pligrimage, no word of rago or grief can express the feeling, but people want desperately not to be alone." "Celebrate life." he admonished. "Every child

"Celebrate life," she admonished. "Every child and adult matters, all are human beings whether they are HIV positive or negative."

Hillary Clinton, who is conducting health care reform hearings in Lansing, was invited but was unable to attend.

unable to attend.

The party then moved to the third level of the elegant store where round tables were covered in white lace and centered by luscious peach roses.

More than 3,800 terminally ill people and their families will benefit from the program offered by Hospice of Southeastern Michigan this year.

The Village Players of Birmingham celebrated 70 years of the theater arts with its Theater Arts Ball on Seturday evening at The Community House in Birmingham. For its fourth annual ball, to raise money for their building fund, Roaring Twenties costumes were optional, but many members compiled.

Jewelen Richard and Debby Astroin each received a golden Oscar look-alike as honorees for the Village Players Super Star Award. Chairwomen were Donna Masters and Shirley Mann. Committee members Betsy Todd and

See THE SCENE. SH

Committee members: John and Annette Kolon attend the hospice party.

Temple celebrates 30 years

■ Birmingham Temple has been active in the local area for the last 30 years and looks for-ward to continuing success and expansion of its facilities.

BY ETHEL SIMMONS

Thirty years ago, a renegade rabbi and eight area families got together in a Bir-mingham home to form the Birming-mingham home to form the Birmingham Temple.

"It became the first temple of Humanistic Judaiam in the world," Rabbi Sherwin T. Wine said, in his office at the tample on 12 Mile Road in Farmington Hills. "We now have 40 communities around North America and about 200 communities around the world." Birmingham Temple is the largest.

Wine said the national organization began in 1869, with the Birmingham Temple serving as beadquarters for the Society of Humanistic Judaiam. The international federation was organized in 1986. Eight national organizations joined, representing France, Belgium, Iareal, Uruguay, Argentina, Israel, Canada and Australia, as well as the United States.

In the last few years, there has been the addition of Russia and the Ukraine.

Meeting in Moscow

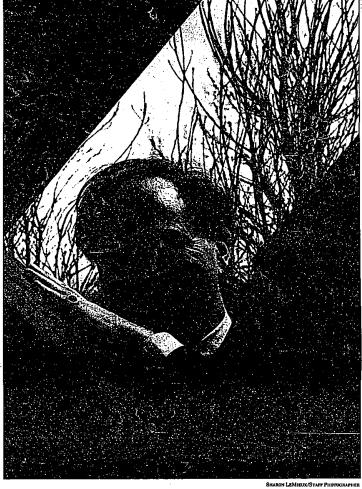

Meeting in Moscow

"The first international meeting was held here in Detroit in 1982," Wine said. The next meeting will take place in Moscow.

Referring to Humanistic Jews who had been in the Soviet Union, Wine said, "At the end of the Cold War they were able to make contact with me. They didn't know about the movement till we came there."

The Birmingham Temple is celebrating its 30th anniversary, with many events schoduled throughout 1993. Israell Minister of Education Shulamit Aloni, a leading feminist in Israel and one of the world leaders of Humanistic Judalsem, will deliver a Short Memorial Lecture on Friday, May 7. A Jubilee party with cabaret singer Sherry Nichols and accompanist Richard Berent will be presented Saturday, May 8. Secretary of Labor Robert Rolch also will speak in May, at a date to be announced.

"There are five alternatives in Judalsem — Orthodor, Conservative, Reform, Reconstructionist and Humanistic," Wine said. "The heart of Humanistic Judalsem is the word human." We believe that the primary source of power and strength comes ethat the primary strength comes

Seo TEMPLE, 2H

Humanistic Judaism movement, which Wine developed.

Area women train as Humanistic rabbis

BY ETHEL SIMMONS

Two women who grew up in the Birmingham-Bloomfield area are among the three individuals who are training to be rabbis for Humanistic Judawho are training to be rabbis for Humanistic Juda-iam congregations.

Stacic Schiff of Beverly Hills and Tammy Feld-stein of Bloomfield Hills are in the first year of a five-year program, newly inaugurated at the Inter-national Institute for Socialer Humanistic Judaiam at the Birmingham Temple in Farmington Hills. Feldstein went directly into the rabbinic program after completing undergraduate studies in 1992. Schiff had seven years of job experience after her undergraduate days ended in 1988, including work-ing as a prison chaplain and as a Conservative movement rabbi.

movement ration.

Also in training as a Humanistic rabbi is Richard Sherman of Los Angeles, who files in for the rabbinle program under the guidance of the institute. He hopes to be a rabbi in LA. and to establish secular Jswish day schools.

lish secular Jewish day schools.

"I've been a member of Birmingham Temple since I was 6," Feldstein said. "My whole Jewish education is from here." She graduated from Andover High School, and her undergraduate experience was at the Hebrew University in Israel where she studied international relations and English literature. Currently, Feldstein attends the Center for Humanistic Studies in Detroit, where she is getting amaster's degree in clinical psychology. Recalling her earlier temple education, she said, "I was always into the after-school classes." She had her bat mitsvah and confirmation at the temple and also took philosophy classes there through high school.
"I tust saw this as a natural continuation." Feld-ple and also took pull-high achool.

"I just saw this as a natural continuation," Feld-stein said about her studies in the rabbinic pro-stein said about her studies in the rabbinic program.

Both Feldstein and Schiff sat down for a chat
after an afternoon class conducted by Rabbi Wine at Birmingham Temple. "This class fulfills part of the requirement," said Feldstein, who noted that a class she is taking at the center in Detroit "fulfills the counseling part of my rabbinic program."

Schiff described her own local background, saying, "I graw up in Beverly Hills, and want to Detroit Country Day School." She graduated from the University of Michign, where she studied English literature, psychology and criminology. Currently, she is a studying for a doctorate in Judaic Studies and Hebrew at U-M.

After completing undergraduate studies, Schiff did television news producing, consulting, and worked as a prison cheplain at the State Prison of Southern Michigan at Jackson and at the Western Wayne Correctional Facility in Plymouth, traveling throughout Michigan to conduct weekly services.

Lesming the ropes: Rabbis-in-training at the International Institute for Secular Humanistic Judaism are Stacie Schiff (left), Richard Sherman and Tammy Feld-- No.