

Pennies from Kenbrook: Students Stephen Patterson (left), Leo Stassinopoulos and Angela Aitous collect coins to help the zoo.

Second grade classes collect pennies from heaven for zoo

At Kenbrook Elementary School in the Farmington District, Marian Brewer's and Lisa Prince's second graders have been busy collecting "Pennies for a Purpose" as part of their social studies program this year.

Over a two-week period about $700 in pennies was collected by the youngsters.

"The kids found it so exciting — they'd never seen so much money in their lives," Brewer said.

The money was donated to the Detroit Zoo during a recent school assembly. Chuck Hammond, executive director of the Detroit Zoological Society, was at Kenbrook to accept the donation.

The students' hard work will help fund a home for the new Mandrill baboons.

The second graders involved the entire school in the fund-raiser by visiting each class, making posters and collecting donations. Part of their math lesson each day was counting and rolling all the coins.
