

Truck rollover ties up Halsted

A specially trained group of firefighters came to the rescue Sept. 8 after a cement truck rolled into a drainage ditch off Halsted in Farmington Hills, leaking hazardous liquids into the stream.

The fully-loaded truck was driving south on Halsted just south of 14 Mile at about 11:25 a.m. when the driver, a 32-year-old Pinckney resident, pulled his truck onto the shoulder to clean the cement chute.

The red Wixom Redimix truck, which with its payload weighed 72,700 pounds, then fell on its side in the ditch.

The driver was not injured, but police had to block off Halsted from 1-9:30 p.m. Wednesday and then again Thursday morning for about two hours so that the cleanup could be completed.

"Motor oil, hydraulic oil, lube oil and automatic transmission oil all spilled into the ditch," said hazardous materials specialist Wally Kureja of the Farmington Hills Fire Department's Special Emergency Response Team. "We put down absorbents and contained the materials to a 10- by 20-foot area."

K&D Industries then cleaned up the materials. Two cranes were also brought to the site to lift the truck. SERT members were at the site for about five hours.

Hills traffic supervisor Sgt. Ray Cranston said the driver was cited for exceeding the weight limits for a class B road (Halsted) by 11,700 pounds. The Michigan State Police Motor Carrier Division had to be called in to weigh the truck and will collect the fine of $3,042.

Remember when the family doctor was like part of the family?

Going to the doctor was a warm, friendly experience. The doctor greeted you by name and knew your whole family.

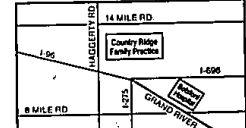

You were surrounded by a feeling of caring concern. Your doctor took the time to listen to your thoughts, feelings and questions before discussing treatment options with you.

But medicine has changed with improvements in science and technology, sometimes resulting in more streamlined, less personal care. At a medical clinic, you may not see the same doctor every time. And you'll probably be shuffled from one end of the building to the other for tests.

At Country Ridge Family Practice, Dr. T. Reid Kavieff combines the best of both worlds - offering warm, compassionate care with the latest in laboratory and diagnostic equipment conveniently available right in the office. He will give careful consideration to your needs and desires while doing everything possible to ensure your good health.

When you choose your medical care, come where we care about you as well as care for you.
