NEW 1928 "GREENWICH VILLAGE FOLLIES TO BE AT SHUBERT-DETROIT"

The Bohemians, Inc., announce they will present their eighth revival of New York's Latin quarter at the Shubert-Detroit Opera House for a limited engagement, opening Sunday night, March 18. "The Greenwich Village Follies, 1928" is described as a musical production of gorgeousness, in colorful scenery and costumes, and irrepressible gaiety. The latest production is said to literally gleam and sparkle with a varied view of scenic wonders and marvelous lighting effects which, at times, are said to give almost the effect of a fantastic scene from some dream situation, of the imagination.

In the large cast of favorites are: Grace LaRue, Dr. Rockwell, Grace Brinkley, Evelyn Law, Jack Sanborn, Bobby Watson, Lola Raine, Jans and Whalen, Laura Lee, Eddie Shubert, Annie Fritchard, Sylvia Carol, the Parisian dance sensation, Carlos and Valeria and Arnold Johnson's Famous Orchestra. Max Lief, a well known newspaper writer, and his brother, Dr. Nathaniel Lief, wrote the lyrics, and Ray Perkins and Maurie Rubens, did the music. Ralph Reader staged the dances, and Charles Judels and Lew Morton directed the dialogue. Settings are "Waltz King" Barratt; Jan Opra, famous ballet master from the Casino de Paris, created the pantomimes and ballets. There are fifty young artists' models who seem to derive as much pleasure out of the work as if they were out for a holiday.

ADDRESSING PACKAGES ON ONE SIDE FAVORED

The Post Office department requests that parcels be addressed on one side only. If this is done they receive better and faster treatment on the part of employees and special handling and special delivery stamps are noted with more ease, which will help improve the service.

CORRECTION

In the statement of financial condition of the Peoples State Bank of Farmington, published in last week's Enterprise, an error was made under the heading of "Reserves." "U. S. Bonds, etc." were listed as $418.38, which was the amount of Exchanges, the latter listing having been omitted. The corrected statement is published on this page.
