

CHILDREN ATTEND VACATION CLASS, MOTHERS PLEASED

Forty Enrolled In Daily Bible
School At Evangelical Church

Forty children have been enrolled in the Vacation Bible School which has been opened by the Salem Evangelical Church of Farmington. Classes in Bible study are conducted each day except Saturday by Rev. A. A. Schoen.

Children of all denominations are enrolled. School starts at 8:30 a. m., and is made quite pleasant by the inclusion of a play-period of one-half hour each morning.

Not only the children seem to be pleased, but there are rumors that the mothers also are not adverse to being spared the care of the youngsters during the mornings in summer. All children are welcomed to the school.

for a few days in the atmosphere of Arlington and the Lincoln Memorial, and see the government of the Nation in action. They are Farmington's delegates marching across the continent."

Supt. Leonard praised the alumni scholarship fund and declared "it is a good sign when the students of Farmington High School carry the spirit of the school into the world, to such an extent that they want to give help to those who are coming on."

"The fruit of the tree determines its value," said Supt. Leonard. "Of 152 graduates of the last seven years, only a possible two could be named who may not be walking as we would wish to have them."

Mr. Leonard said that in the last seven years, Farmington has won fifteen athletic championships and set three State records. "But more important, on the day of a terrific defeat, at Belleville, the Deputy Commissioner of Schools of Wayne County, looking at Farmington's team being battered about the field declared that they exemplified the highest type of sportsmanship."

that the borrower is required to sign a note, with an endorser. Interest at four per cent will be charged, after the student has continued school, and one year is given before repayment is to begin. All must be paid, however, within five years.

The Alumni Association is empowered to pass upon the school which the borrowing student selects. A provision in the by-laws is to the effect that the names of students borrowing are not to be given publicly.

Anna Brown was chosen president of the Association for the coming year. L. A. Gildemeister, vice-president, Martha Staman, secretary, and Clara Pagel, treasurer. Following the business meeting Hinman Nichols, president, introduced the toastmaster, Lloyd Gullen.

Class Of 1917 Welcomed
Allen Kilom welcomed the class of 1928, who were guests of the Alumni at the dinner. Howard Middlewood responded for the new alumni, and G. Gerald Parker of the University of Michigan, talked on "Campus Life." A poem, "Our Own Alumni," was recited by the author, Miss M. Marie Walling, a member of the Association.

Roy Hutton, a graduate of the class of 1904, who hastened back from a trip to Pittsburgh in order to be at the banquet, was called upon for remarks. In the absence of Mary J. Hutton, Mr. Hutton is in charge of a department of the Detroit Free Press.

A graduate of 35 years ago, Walter Dohany, now general counsel for the Michigan Central Railroad, returned to Farmington for the first time since he completed his schooling, to speak at the dinner. Mr. Dohany gave an interesting picture of the Farmington of his school-days. He recalled the arrival of the first bicycle with pneumatic tires to be used in Farmington, relating how the residents declared that it was "impossible for anyone to ride on air."

Only five students were in Mr. Dohany's class, he recalled. The closing address was given by Supt. Archie G. Leonard, and marked, as he described it, his "laying down of armor" after seven years as superintendent. Music for the banquet was furnished by the Methodist male quartet, and C. C. Ernestine Pierce and P. Owen Pauline.
