RECENT RAINS LESSON FOREST FIRE HAZARDS

General rains recently have resulted in the forest fire hazard in Michigan being lessened a considerable legree. Department of Conservation officials have announced. Previous to the rain, the forests were like tinder in many sections. One large fire in Antrim County burned over an area containing between 5,000 and 6,000 acres. The rains were hailed joyfully by the Department's force of fire fighters who saw the conditions as reaching a point where any fire might result in the burning over of extensive areas.

The Japanese Government is planning a program of telephone extension to be spread over a period of 11 years.

Considering what most people are willing to do for money it's a wonder there are not more millionaires.
