CAN'T MAKE POLICE BELIEVE

New York Youngster Who Wishes Guardians of the Peace Were Not So Official.

There is a very small girl in this town who believes in police persecution; that is to say, she believes that it exists, though she is anything but in favor of it, says the New York Sun. Her home is downtown on the East side and she goes to one of the kindergarten on the upper West side. The young lady's mother has to work and so the kindergarten takes to kindergarten alone. She starts out with two nickels tightly held to a small palm and she's just tall enough to reach up to the elevated ticket office to secure her transportation. The ticket chopper is kind enough to deposit her ticket for her. Everything goes well on the uptown trip because in the crowd she isn't noticed.

But when she starts home shortly after noon there is trouble. Every policeman that sees her insists that she's lost. It is useless for her to explain that she knows perfectly well where she's going; she's too small to be believed, that's all. Two or three times a week she is bundled off to the station house in spite of her tearful protestations. There she produces a much-fingered card on which is the phone number of a saloon near the home. The saloonkeeper tells the police that it's all right, explains the circumstances, and she is permitted to go her way. But she is getting mighty tired of it, just the same.

REASON FOR LIKING BARBER

Customer's Remark That Might Be Called Considerably More Than a Hint.

The barber was a trifle more talkative than usual, and the customer, having come directly from the dentist's chair, was perhaps hardly in an amiable mood. The knight of the razor opened fire in blase ignorance of this, however, and passing glibly from the weather to foreign politics, the rival barber opposite, the practical value of religion, was just beginning to explain in detail his views on current educational topics, when the customer suddenly growled: "Look here, where's that assistant of yours—the boy with the red hair?"

"Why, he's left me, sir. We parted Saturday night—on friendly terms and all that, you know, sir—but—" "He left?" growled the other. "I liked that fellow. He was one of the most sensible fellows I ever met. I was going to ask to have him shave me always. We've had so many pleasant conversations."

"Excuse me, sir," interrupted the barber, in amazement, "but—you mistake, sir, surely! If you'll remember, sir, poor Jim was deaf and dumb—" "Umph! He was deaf and dumb, perhaps that explains it,"—Yuth's Companion.

Moving Pictures of Insects.
A French inventor, Monsieur Bull, has perfected a cinematograph with which pictures of insects in flight may be taken, and afterward exhibited in motion upon a screen, or a stereoscopic apparatus. As many as 5,000 images per second may be made, but in studying the movement made by the flying insects, as represented by the images, the latter can be caused to pass with relatively great deliberation, so that only 12 or 15, or even only two or three seconds one another per second. By an ingenious device Monsieur Bull causes the insect itself to make an electric contact, and thus set the apparatus in motion at the beginning of its flight.

Women Banned From Temples.
Amongst the Fiji Islanders dogs are excluded from some temples. Women are, however, debarred from all. In the Marquesas Islands, should a woman venture to enter a temple while divine service is being held, or even walk under the shadow of its trees, she would be forthwith put to death. Exclusion of the fair sex extends even to dancing parties, festivals, entertainments and banquets. In many cases only flocks of one sex make up a dance, the intrusion of the other being punishable with death. This separation of the two sexes is adhered to by the natives even at times of religious feasts.

Misery in Head

"I had misery in my head, was irritable—wretched. A drugist recommended Dr. Miles' Nervine. From the first I felt improved, and continued until I was entirely well again." MISS VIOLA BAKER, Orange, Texas.

If you are subject to headache, backache, neuralgia, epilepsy, weak stomach—the chances are your nervous system is run down. All the organs get their energy from the nerves, and when they are out of order, it is because you lack nerve force.

Dr. Miles' Nervine restores nervous energy and consequently strengthens the action of the organs.

The first bottle will benefit; if not, your druggist will return your money.

Take Care

When the kidneys are affected, life is in danger. Read what Foley's Kidney Pills have done for your neighbor, Wm. B. Seaman, Flint, Mich., says: "For years I suffered with my kidneys, having severe backaches, attended with dizzy spells. I felt miserable, and tired off easily, and then I got some of Foley's Kidney Pills and after using them a short time, a wonderful change for the better took place. My backache left me, and as I continued the treatment, the dizzy spells vanished. I owe my cure to Foley's Kidney Pills, and wish everyone to know of them." Sold by T. H. McGee.
