Daily Record Shows What Grave Ac cidents May Be Traced to Triffing Neglect.

oldents May be Treed to Triffing Neglect.

The cause of the sinking of the Pere Marquette car ferry, while not definitely known to any of the survivors, is pretty well determined to be from portholes which were open when they should have been closed, says a writer in Popular Mechanics. These ports were not so very large, only twelve inches in diameter, and only a few in number, but the man shose business it was to see that they were closed when the lake roughened, for some reason failed to do his duy it doubtiess seemed a commonplace thing to go back to that small after compartment and make sure the openings were shut, but the failure to do so cost the watchman over the portion of delicity in what are, or appear to be, small things, and yet most of the serious accidents in modern transportation seem to trace back to apprently trifting neglect. A switch light is poorly trimmed, as the tender thinks to himself, what matters a single lamp among the bundreds of thousands that nightly connect the furthermost parts of the land with a cobwe of ruby lines. And so the story could be extended undefinitely, but the moral always comes to the fore again, that faithful, conscientious performance of the men or the hero, who axes the battle.

Change Color of Uniform.

Change Color of Uniform.
Time and necessity have at least convinced the French military authorities that a change will have to be made in the color of the array uniform. France alore among the great nations has close among the great nations has close at the smilltary uniform of the heat and it will come with the color of the corrults but to the public swell, to know that the futility thus cours and red fropthe futility thus cours and red fropthe futility to neare distinguish the the familiar blue conts and red frop-sers will no longer distinguish the soldier of the line. The protectife cotoration of the army dress was first recognized by Great Britain, whose critians substities after long re-search the ston khaki as affording least detection and possessing advan-tiges of cleanliness, cheapness, and durability. The United States follow-ed soil, as did other nations. Neutral intsi of gray or gray blue have been adopted by a number of Duropean armites.

"I think you will like our Georgie," said the foud mother to the new minister. "He's so polite, and so unusually choice in his use of language. Come here, Georgie, dear, and speak to Mr. Pinkley. He's our new minister, you

It was in a remote theater, which glorded in a "elever" leading woman. The manager from New York looked on approvingly. Finally he sald to the local jotentate. "Twelfth Night would be a good pale for this gerl."
