Mark McPherson

Drama brings Wyatt Earp to life

Mark F. McPherson introduces "The Last Knight," — the true story of my life and career in the great American West as told by Marshal Wyatt Earp, 8 p.m. Friday, April 15, in the Lila R. Jones Johnson Theater on the Royal Oak campus of Oakland Community College, 739 S. Washington. Tickets are $10 and include hors d'oeuvres by Durango Grill. Call (313) 544-4903. Tickets will also be available at the door, the evening of the performance. Since his death in 1929, the controversy over Wyatt Earp's character, frontier experiences and career as a famous and somewhat brutal Western gunfighter and lawman has continued. Addressing the issue of "who was Wyatt Earp" is McPherson, an actor, playwright and historical investigator. Portraying Wyatt Earp is McPherson's newest project. He is known locally for his series of other one-character dramas in which he has become such individuals as Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, Winston Churchill, George Bernard Shaw, and Charles Dickens. "The Last Knight" will be illustrated with an extensive sequence of actual period photographs as a means of revealing what the rugged American world of wilderness, prairies and cow-towns was like.

Ars Poetica presents concert

When Anatoli Chelnouk defected from his native Russia in 1936, he brought with him a profound love of music and a dream to create a unique expression for that music. On Monday, April 11, at Detroit's Orchestra Hall, the maestro will partially repay a debt to his adopted country with a benefit performance by Ars Poetica Chamber Orchestra, a group of renowned music professionals under his direction. Call (313) 833-3700 or Ticketmaster (810) 433-0000.

Ars Poetica is comprised of professional musicians from major orchestras including Chicago, Cleveland, Dallas and Detroit. Principal soloist for the April 11 concert will be solo bassist, Gary Karr and violinist Lev Polyskin in a program that includes works by Mozart, Paganini, Bottesini and Haydn.

Tickets are $20, $25 and $50. Partially tax-deductible tickets to benefit the Van Deusen Compact College Fund are $100 and $150, and $1,000 for eight box seats and include an afterglow reception. Proceeds from the April 11 concert will be donated to the Richard C. Van Deusen Compact College Fund which provides financial aid to qualified Detroit high school graduates.
