

Dance teacher steps into her students' hearts

Farmington Hills resident Rose Marie Gregor is celebrating her 50th year as a dance teacher in Michigan.

She began her teaching career in 1943 in Detroit and in 1963 founded the Ballet and Jazz School at the Birmingham Community House. She has dedicated her time and talents to thousands of Wayne and Oakland County young people.

The goal of Gregor's teaching is progressive achievement through a carefully-graded curriculum where the students work with discipline, and dance is taught as an art. Her focus has been on incorporating dance discipline with lessons that prepare students for the real world.

She teaches that whether or not students pursue a professional career in dance, the discipline they learn from dance will be applicable throughout their life and the art will enhance it, she believes. Lessons help students live life with hope, dreams and realistic expectations, and with a sound moral base.

Gregor is accredited to teach ballet by the Cecchetti Council of America, the Imperial Society of Teachers of Dancing, London, England, and the Australian Russian-Ballet Society for Theatre.

She is an executive board member of the Cecchetti Council of America, and is in demand as an examiner and guest teacher for ballet seminars and workshops nationwide.

Many of her students have been awarded scholarships to study with some of the most acclaimed schools, including the Robert Joffrey School and the Harkness School of Ballet in New York City, the Boston Ballet School, and Canadian schools including the Royal Winnipeg Ballet and the National Ballet of Canada.

Alumni have gone on to professional careers with the Milwaukee Ballet, Cleveland Ballet, Ballet West, Ohio Ballet, South West Ballet and the Pennsylvania Ballet.

Current and former students of Gregor's will be traveling to join in a celebration on Sunday, May 1, to honor her. The event will include a student dance performance, old film clips and photographs. Light refreshments will be served.

All former students are invited to join in the celebration. The event will be held 2-4 p.m. at the Birmingham Community House. Suggested donation is $5 at the door. For more information, call Ruth Snyder at (313) 644-0485.

Wildlife seminar gives kids warm and fuzzy tips

Observers of a wildlife informational seminar last week will know what to do the next time they find an ailing animal in their back yard or on a walk.

Bev Cornell, a Farmington resident and retired veterinary technician, gave a lecture at the Spicer House in Heritage Park on how to tell if baby animals are really orphans.

The annual program, that lasted about one and a half hours, drew more than 83 people.

Among all the tidbits, Cornell explained that mother Cottontails spend very little time with their babies. She only feeds them three or four times in a 24-hour period. She stays with them long enough to feed and clean them. She then goes to feed herself. So you may never actually see the mother at the nest.

For animal emergencies call the Department of Natural Resources or Cornell at her home at 653-8974.

The program is sponsored by the Women's National Farming and Garden Association.

Strange bedfellows: Bristol and Teddy Bear wandered freely through the crowd.

Soft, cuddly: Bev Cornell shows spectators a raccoon, named Emily, that weighs less than one pound.
