WEDDINGS

Tamara is first DIBI center

Tamara Friedman, founder of Tamara Institut de Beaute, received recognition as the first DIBI Center in the Midwest.

The award was presented by Ron Mart, president of the DIBI Distribution Center in Farmington Hills, and Vincenzo Martta, vice president of International Operations.

DIBI Inc., the renowned European leader in skin care products recently opened a distribution center in Michigan, the fifth distribution center in the United States.

DIBI representatives said they were thrilled to present Friedman with an award for being the first salon in the Midwest to purchase the DIBITron Face machine.

DIBITron Face is a revolutionary computerized facial process that even talks to the client.

The new DIBI Distribution Center is located at 32522 Northwestern Highway, at the Courtyard Plaza in Farmington Hills.

For more information or for an appointment call 1-800-257-3424.

Moser-Kettelson

Cheryl A. Kettelson and Shawn Moser were married April 23 in the First Presbyterian Church of Farmington Hills. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Domiter of Farmington Hills. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Moser of Redford.

The couple received guests at The Botsford Inn. They are making their home in Redford.

Luncheon, fashion show to raise cash

The Myasthenia Gravis Association is hosting their 19th Annual Luncheon and Fashion Show on Saturday, May 21, at the Ritz-Carlton, Dearborn.

This year's show, "Fashionation," will be presented by Jacobson's and the guest celebrity will be WJBK-TV Channel 2 anchor, Catherine Leahan. "Fashionation" will begin with cocktails at noon.

"The MGA Fashion Show has grown to become the agency's largest fund raising event," according to Deborah Kent, executive director of the Myasthenia Gravis Association.

"The committee has put together a beautiful afternoon for our guests," she said. "We are pleased to have Catherine Leahan and Jacobson's helping us help those afflicted by the neuromuscular disease, myasthenia gravis."

Tickets for "Fashionation" are $35 and are available from the MGA office at 810-423-9700. Proceeds from the event will support the Myasthenia Gravis research and patient service programs.
