HAIG GALLERIES
Thursday, June 16 — A showing of Central and South American ancient textiles and ceramics from private collections continues through July 3. Grand reopening 6-9 p.m. Thursday. Curators Paul and Diane Haig will be present at the reopening party. They got their nickname "Indiana Haigs" from their close encounters in world travels. During the first part of their three-week vacation, buying trip to Indonesia this winter, they narrowly missed being trampled by an elephant. Paul Haig was injured in an accident and laid up for an additional six weeks in an Indonesian mountain hospital. The gallery specializes in ancient, Asian and tribal art, and provides restoration, authentication and appraisal services for a wide range of ethnographic art forms. Hours are 2-6 p.m. Monday-Thursday, noon to 8 p.m. Friday, noon to 6 p.m. Saturday, on the second level of 311 Main, just east of Third in downtown Rochester. (810) 856-8333.
