Harrison graduation message: Value family

BY TOM BAER
STAFF WRITER

Students come first at high school commencements, but parents and family members certainly weren't forgotten at Harrison High School's recent ceremony.

Cathleen Webb, president of the Farmington Board of Education, made sure Harrison's 202 graduates remembered how they got there in remarks she made at the Crisler Arena graduation.

"My message was for them (graduates) to focus in on their parents and their families," Webb said, "and to realize that they didn't get to this spot on their own, that their parents are their most important teachers - and always will be.

"I read the Mark Twain saying: When I was a boy of 14, I thought my old man was so ignorant that I could hardly stand to have the old man around. But when I turned 21, I was amazed at how much the old man had learned in seven years."

"They (kids) all kind of laughed. I told them that, as they approach the age of 21 and beyond, and as parents keep getting smarter, they should make use of their parents' wisdom and advice."

Parents and family members were then asked to stand and be recognized.

The commencement was the first at Harrison for Rande Horn, the school's new principal.

"It was a great day and a very nice group of kids to deal with," Horn said. "I really enjoyed being there."

Horn said a speech by Tracy Parker, president of the HHS Class of 1994, "really hit home with a lot of the kids."

"She (Parker) talked about them and how they proceeded through school and the challenges that are ahead of them,"

Horn said. "She challenged her classmates to accomplish things. I think that's what touched me."

Other class officers were Timothy Bares, vice president; Amanda Effrick, secretary; and Sheri Stalnack, treasurer.

Susan Rennals and David York, trustees on the Farmington Board of Education, presented the diplomas.
