

Man bound over in stalking of Botsford worker

William Joseph Lavack's family, emotionally devastated that he is accused of abducting Karen Stewart of Westland, voiced relief Thursday that the incident ended without bloodshed.

"We are sad that the whole thing happened," Lavack's sister, Dorothy Hurst, said. "We had sleepless nights just like they (Stewart's family) did. We are glad it ended like it did. Nobody was hurt."

Lavack's mother, too overcome with emotion to talk, sobbed loudly as family members led her from Westland 18th District Court, where her son was ordered Thursday to stand trial on charges of stalking Stewart and breaking into her Osceola Court residence.

"My mother has been under a doctor's care," Hurst said, "but it was important for her to be here today. It was important for her to see him."

Lavack, 30, still faces charges of kidnapping and sexually assaulting Stewart, his ex-girlfriend, during the nine-day abduction that ended at 2:15 a.m. July 6 in Michigan's Upper Peninsula. Westland police have said in court. Lavack, armed with an assault rifle, a 9 mm handgun and explosives, surrendered peacefully after a nine-hour standoff with authorities at a woods-abandoned cabin near Kiva, 25 miles south of Marquette, police said.

Lavack's arraignment on the pending charges may occur in Redford District Court, police aid, because Stewart, 37, was abducted in Redford. She has said she was forced into Lavack's car when she met him June 27 during her dinner break from nearby Botsford Hospital, in Farmington Hills, where she works as an emergency room clerk. She was hoping to be repaid $400 that she said Lavack owed her.

Defense attorney Toni Caldwell argued in court Thursday that Lavack, a Lincoln Park resident, shouldn't face a stalking charge because of Stewart's testimony that she had sex with him the week before she was abducted.

"She had sex with him consensually a week beforehand, even after she told him she was engaged (to fiance Tony Perez)," Caldwell said. Stewart and Perez plan to wed soon.

Hurst, Lavack's sister, also questioned the stalking charge after Thursday's proceedings.

"They're two adults. If she's going to have consensual sex with him, I don't see how she can bring a stalking charge against him," Hurst said.

In her testimony, however, Stewart said she had a deep-rooted fear of Lavack because he repeatedly told her during their two-year relationship that no one else could have her.

Stewart testified that when she tried to end the relationship, Lavack told her that he "didn't want to live" without her. Lavack, who is married, also promised to divorce his wife, Stewart said.

"I told him that I was going to get married (to Perez) and I just wanted to be left alone," she testi-
