gets married, Gregor goes through the videotapes she has made and compiles a special tape of their dance career, as a gift.

When a student has her first baby, she brings a tiny pair of ballet slippers for the child. A couple of years ago, a former student became the mother of twin boys. "I sent baseball suits," she said.

Daughter also teaches

A widow for the last year and a half, she has a son, an engineer, and a daughter, Gayla Norris of Farmington, who has been teaching classes with her for 15 years.

"She's a wonderful teacher, and a good mentor to the kids," Gregor said. Lauren Toth of Troy also teaches at the school.

Gregor will be busy this summer with dance activities. Besides her work at The Community House, she is active as an executive board member and faculty member for the Cecchetti Council of America headquartered in Detroit.

"I never stop," she said, noting that she has spent nine summers in Europe studying classical ballet in England, Austria and Scotland.
