ANNIVERSARIES

Schiffman

Golden wedding anniversary bells ring for Marianna and Louis (Bud) Schiffman Sept. 21.

The Farmington Hills couple will be given a dinner reception by their children, David, Jack, Mark, Joe, Marylou and Bob Schiffman and Diane Cresswell.

They will be joined by friends, relatives and their 13 grandchildren, Ken, Betsy, John, Amy, Meghan, Matthew, Michael, Andrew, Thomas, Daniel, Joseph, Holly and Carrie, as well as their great-grandchildren Matthew and Katherine.

The couple exchanged their wedding vows Sept. 21 in Detroit. They have lived in Farmington Hills for more than 44 years.

Farmington resident earns fellowship award

The recipient for the first Dairy and Food Industries Supply Association Foundation Graduate Research Fellowship Award is Eric Jon Cole, a Farmington Hills resident and master's candidate at Michigan State University.

The award was presented during the Awards Ceremony of the 89th Annual Meeting of the American Dairy Science Association, held at the Minneapolis Convention Center and hosted by the University of Minnesota.

Cole is interested in packaging and in food and dairy chemistry. He is studying packaging systems with an interest in enhancing the stability and quality of powdered dairy food by controlling exposure to oxygen and moisture.

Currently enrolled in the master's program in food science at Michigan State University, Cole expects to receive his degree next August. After graduation he hopes to work in the dairy industry to gain practical experience before returning to graduate school.

The DFISA is an association of manufacturers and suppliers serving the dairy, food, beverage, and related processing industries.

Here's how to submit announcements
