IMPRESSIVE SOUNDS
The score posted Saturday by Rick Wheeler certainly didn't look like First Flight stuff.

The Livonia resident shot a 73 — officially, the third-best round of the day in the tournament. Wheeler is a 22 handicapper.

He returned to this planet on Sunday with a still-solid 81 for a pinning total of 154. Second place went to Bob Dates, assistant director of the Canton Parks and Recreation Services, with a consistent 79-79/158. They were the only two first-rounders to post scores under 160.

"We were all playing for second," said Dates. Wheeler almost added the perfect finishing touch to his championship on the seventh hole Sunday. His drive bounced right to the stick and stopped — only an inch or two away from a hole-in-one.

WITHDRAWN?

Klaus of Farmington Hills started the tournament Saturday knowing that other obligations would prevent him from playing Sunday. Still, one has to wonder if he had second thoughts.

Playing in the championship flight, Klaus fired an opening-round 75 to put him within striking distance of first place and certainly in the running for some sort of gift certificate.

QUITE A CADDY

Last year, Karl Nagy of Livonia finished second in the championship flight. This year, he called on some expert advice — former O&E champ and current pro Dean Kobane.

A Livonia Churchill and University of Michigan graduate, Kobane aided his friend by caddying for him. Since he turned pro, Kobane couldn't play. He is competing in the Hurricane Tour in North Carolina, one of several minor golf tours around the country.

"It's a whole different world," said Kobane of his experiences. He hasn't won anything on the tour — not yet, anyway.

Nagy finished 10th at 76-81/157.

FORGET THE WEATHER

The inclement conditions — pouring rain in the morning delayed Saturday's start — there were only a couple of no-shows in the field of 118. And many of the golfers raved over the condition of the greens, saying they were in excellent condition.

Rochester's Aumock waits, wins O&amp;E golf tournament

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

It's an old story — your score is posted, you're finished, just watching, trying to be patient, knowing the situation is under someone else's control.

The waiting is the worst. For Steve Aumock, that was more than an adage. He had lived it.

Three-and-a-half weeks ago, at the Northern Michigan Amateur Tournament at Gaylord Country Club, Aumock was in the clubhouse with the lowest score. "All the scores were up," Aumock recalled. "All but one. Then that guy came in and beat me."

Aumock ended up second out of 103 golfers. So on Sunday, when he discovered his score of 72-73/145 was atop the Observer & Eccentric/Whispering Willows Tournament standings, he took the news hesitantly.

Nervously, too. He really didn't need to be reminded by Peter Mogg, one of his foursomes, that it was "the same scenario today" as in Gaylord. As it turned out, it wasn't. The only threat still on the course was William Himm (of Livonia), who had shot a 75 Saturday and was in one of the final foursomes. Himm couldn't catch Aumock, however; he shot an 81 Sunday for a 156 total.

Aumock's victory was secure — at last.

And although it was just his second O&E Tournament, the Rochester Adams graduate ('88) believed the victory was overdue. That's because of what happened to him last year in his first O&E tournament.

"I was ahead with nine holes left," said Aumock, "then bogey, bogey, bogey. It's not like I was nervous — I just couldn't get the ball to go."

Luck favored him this year. While many of the field of 118 had to deal with a driving rainstorm that delayed the start Saturday, Aumock went off in the afternoon, when the weather had cleared.

Despite poor conditions, some good first-round scores were posted. Mark Holowicki (Farmington Hills) led with a 71; Aumock was next with 72, followed by Bob Caruso (Livonia) with a 73 and Murray Brooks (Westland) at 74.

On Sunday, the weather was better but the scores in general weren't. Holowicki shot a 79 for a 150 total, good for third place; Alex McLuckie (Livonia) came closest to challenging Aumock with a best-round score of 72 to finish second with a 147. Mogg (Birmingham) was fourth at 77-74/151.

In first flight, Rick Wheeler (Livonia) opened up a big lead with a 73 Saturday and coasted to victory with an 81 Sunday for a 154 total. Bob Dates (Canton) placed second with a 79-79/158, with Dan McInerney (Troy) third at 78-83/161.

Darrell Johnston (Livonia) won second flight with an 81-89/170. Kevin Behn (West Bloomfield) was second with 84-87/171 and Nick Moutafis was third at 85-88/173.

Top finisher in third flight was Greg Greshik (Livonia), 97-101/198, followed by Paul Shedik (Troy), 101-102/203 and Ron Retzaff (Southfield) 101-103/204.

turned out to be, Wilson was happiest with Ryan Andrzejewski's performance. "This is the kid who really came through," insisted Wilson.

Indeed he did. Andrzejewski, who shot a 48 in Salem's nine-hole hole to Churchill Sept. 9 at Whispering Willows, figured to be the Rocks' fifth scorer. Instead, the junior shot a career-best 74 to earn co-medalist honors for the tournament with North's Drew Sopha.

Other Salem scorers: junior Mike Hjeltnast, 77; sophomores Brian Fox and Jeff Lear, each with 81; and senior Brian Covington, 82.

Churchill coach Kirk Oaler felt he had nothing to be displeased about. "I was happy with our kids," he said. "They were very consistent. We had all five kids medal and we didn't win — I think that's the first time that's ever happened."

"I felt if we broke 400 that would do it. The nice thing about it was, no one shot a real big number for us. So it doesn't throw us off track. Our stroke average is still coming down."

Churchill was led by Dave Higham at 77. Next for the Chargers was Jason Kiebler (78), followed by Chris Kiebler (79), Leon Kashawile (80) and Gary Kraus (81).

It was a two-team title race all the way. Northville was a distant third, 26 strokes behind at 421, with North fourth at 422. Fifth went to Walled Lake Central (428), followed by Walled Lake Western (429), Livonia Stevenson (439), Livonia Franklin (445), Farmington (449), Plymouth Canton (452), Farmington Harrison (457) and Westland John Glenn (468).

The top five scorers were named conference medal-winners. That group included North's Sopha, Salem's Andrzejewski, Franklin's Jason DeGrande (76), Churchill's Higham and Salem's Hjeltnast.

The next 10 best scorers were named division medal-winners. They were: at 78, Central's Matt Pesta and Churchill's Jason Kiebler; at 79, Churchill's Chris Kiebler; at 80, Northville's Rob Rankin and Churchill's Kashawile; and at 81, Salem's Lear and Fox, Canton's Brian Carlson, Churchill's Kraus and Northville's Eric Swietlik.

The finish was the closest in conference history. It was also Salem's first WLAAG golf title.

"I hope we can take this into Friday's (Class A state) regional at Oak Pointe, in Brighton," said Wilson. With a little good fortune, the Rocks' season could be extended even further.

Family Emergencies.

No two emergencies are exactly alike. So all emergency care shouldn't be the same either.

That's why we designed and built our emergency department to handle everything from minor accidents to life-threatening emergencies. We have the resources of 120 hospital beds, a fully equipped intensive care unit, a trauma center, and a 24-hour emergency room. We have the staff to handle everything that comes through our doors.

At the University of Michigan Medical Center, we have the resources to handle everything that comes through our doors. We have the staff to handle everything that comes through our doors.
