Designers display own homes

The International Furnishings and Design Association Designer Home Tour '94, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 9, gives the public achance to see how Interior designers decorate their own homes. Six different homes in the Birmingham/Bioomfidid area will be featured. Admission is $25 each, or buy four and get one free. Tickes are available at the Michigan Design Center, 1700 Stutz in Troy, or by calling (810) 649-4860. Designers featured in the tour are Susan Geyle, Leura Tobocman, Shella York, Linda Golden, Judy Greenwald and Rosanne Duncan. With the power of color, the "POW" of imagination, Gayle crates a whinsical, modern art decohoms for herself and her young family. In Tobocman's in-town jewel box, rich textures showcase collections of antiques and show off the charms of an American classic with European overtones.

classic with European overtones.
York offer big lessons for small spaces, as American primitives and pelntings used in a sophisticated way enliven a 1927 home. Golden illustrates starting over, as continual renovations and updating add warmth and openness to a residence designed around art and antiques. and antiques.

and antiques.

In an elegant and charming home, Greenwald creates soft, serene spaces around a collection of fine English antiques. Working with a vision to faithfully restore a special time and place, Duncan strives to balance elegance and informality during a restoration in progress.

Design day benefit slated

The Michigan Design Center in Troy and Style magazine present an important day of design Tues-day, Oct. 18, with proceeds to hen-efit Detroit Symphony Orchestra Hall.

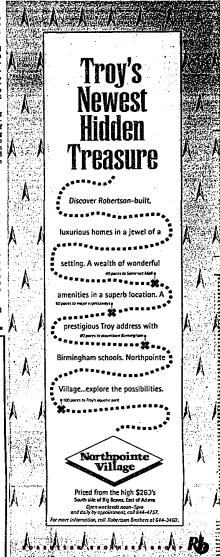

Hall.

Carl Schwarz, editor of Style, will discuss design and decorating trends with a slide presentation featuring new metro area design projects as featured in her magazine, as well as new-season products from the MDC showrooms.
