Delectable entertainment served up at dinner theater

By BRIAN LYBAHT

GRAY WATERS

Dinner theaters are becoming more popular than desert, it seems. Why not? They're easier on the waistline and much more entertaining.

Genitti's Hole-In-The-Wall Restaurant in Northville is running "The Not-So OK Corral," a western musical, murder-mystery through Nov. 20 at the restaurant.

The evening starts off with a seven-course Italian dinner, served family style, like they say, an old Italian wedding.

Then, patrons are invited to wander into the Old West to join a cast of cowboys and cowgirls for some "interactive" dinner theater. Those Italian wedding guests should be prepared to be drafted into the show.

The $35 per plate charge includes dinner, tip and the show. For more information, call (810) 349-0622. The show runs Fridays-Mondays at 6 p.m. or 7 p.m.

At The Kingsley Inn in Bloomfield Hills offers the murder-mystery "Sleuth" at 7:30 p.m. Nov.

10, 26, Dec. 3, 17, 24, 31 and Saturdays in January. Diners can choose an entree from roast pork tenderloin, cherry chicken and broiled salmon with dill sauce. The cost is $29.95, which includes one drink. For more information, call (810) 642-0100.

At The Henry Ford Museum's newly renovated Anderson Center Theater is presenting the 1907 Augustus Thomas play, "The Witching Hour," as part of a dinner theater option Fridays and Saturdays through Nov. 6.

The drama, concerns gamblers, telepathy and hypnosis, and the production starts the Anderson Center's new season. The Greenfield Village Theatre Company presents plays that reflect history, customs, and performing arts in America.

Tickets are $27.50 for the show and dinner. Dinner, with a main course of chicken cordon bleu, begins at 6:45, and the play begins at 8 p.m. Tickets are available at the box office, at the information desk in the entrance of Greenfield Village, or by calling Greenfield Village at (313) 271-1620.

The theater is inside Henry Ford Museum at Oakwood Boulevard and Village Road in Dearborn, just west of the Southfield Freeway and south of Michigan Avenue.

Meanwhile, the Allen Park Motor Lodge is presenting Maggie, Brick and Big Daddy in Tennessee Williams' "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" Fridays and Saturdays through Nov. 12.

The motor lodge is at 14487 Southfield Road, between Allen and Dix roads.

Diners pay $20.95 for a dinner that includes spinach pie, salad, potato and a choice of entrees: vegetable lasagna, chicken cordon bleu, beef stroganoff or orange roughy. Cocktails are at 7 p.m., dinner at 7:30 p.m. and the show begins at 8 p.m.

The cost of tickets includes dinner, show and taxes, but not drinks or gratuity. For reservations, call the motor lodge at (313) 358-6900.

Producer Ronald Deihl said the performances draw mostly from Downriver but also from Livonia, Southfield and Dearborn.

At the Ramada Heritage Center in Southgate, performances of "Man of La Mancha," based on Cervantes' "Don Quixote," are Friday and Saturday night. Dinner, including a choice of prime rib, stuffed flour and chicken frangelico, begins at 7 p.m., and the show starts at 8 p.m. The cost is $26 and includes dinner, show, tax and tip. Advanced credit card reservations are required. Call (313) 253-4400.

Mystery: Kate Peckham (left to right), Kristopher Walby and Kim Fox of Birmingham portray characters who experience mysterious goings-on and psychic occurrences in "The Witching Hour," at Anderson Center Theater in Henry Ford Museum.
