Area piano teachers miss longtime mentor

Piano teachers throughout western Wayne and south Oakland counties already miss a longtime and steady mentor who died last month at age 89.

Henrietta (Rita) Moeller, born in Hancock, taught piano for more than six decades and was a supporter and encourager of piano teachers throughout the area.

A graduate of the Milwaukee Conservatory, she played the organ in her church for years, in addition to teaching piano for 63 years. Moeller died Sept. 28 in Detroit, where she lived most of her adult life.

She was a member of the Detroit Musicians, Federation of Music Clubs, National Guild of Piano Teachers, past president of the Detroit Musicians League and past president of the Michigan Music Teachers Association.

Although bedridden for the past 11 years, she continued to play the piano a couple of times a day.

In addition to teaching the younger generation, Moeller taught and coached many piano teachers, organizing them into a group called KOA Keyboard Club.

The KOA Keyboard Club met regularly with Moeller helping them with their development as piano teachers. Group members also received professional support from each other through the club.

"She has left a living legacy, namely, all the teachers she has inspired and encouraged," said Ruth Jones, piano teacher of Livonia. "Now many of their students are teaching. Rita will be remembered by family and friends as a beloved mother, grandmother, teacher and friend."

Moeller is survived by husband Alfred, daughters Marilyn and Marsha, four grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.
