author published "Heart Songs and Other Stories," followed by her first novel, "Postcards" (1992), which won the 1939 PEN/Faultner Award. This is the first time this award has been granted to a female author. "Shipping News" (1993) has received much recognition, including the National Book Award for fiction and the Pulitzer Prize. Proulx is currently at work on a third novel, "Accor-dion Cimes."

Judy Goldwasser, local author of a writing manual called "Un-stuck for Words," left the event pleasantly surprised. "The re-views I read," she commented,

"made Proulx come across as a very hard, tough, and belligerent type of persen. I didn't find her that way at all. She has a warmth we could all feel."
