

Before and after

Surviving car fire: With 16 fatalities in Michigan associated with vehicle fires in 1993, fire officials are concerned that the public be aware of the problem. Farmington Hills firefighters helped Channel 7 demonstrate a car fire and how to survive it on Feb. 23-24 telecasts. At right, anchorman Guy Gordon does the talking as Hills firefighters prepare for a training fire. Another car, above, goes up in flames in short order, showing the speed with which the flames can take hold. The fires were set under controlled conditions behind Station 2 on Middlebelt north of 12 Mile.

Hills resident awarded grant

Gloria Perlmutter of Farmington Hills was awarded a "Quality of Life" grant by the Million Dollar Round Table Foundation.

Perlmutter, a Massachusetts Mutual Life agent and a 14-year MDRT member, accepted the $1,000 grant on behalf of the Kadima, an organization for which she actively volunteers.

The Quality of Life program was created in 1990 to encourage volunteerism among MDRT members. The annual program recognizes members who support community service through their involvement.

A total of $79,000 was donated by the MDRT Foundation to 60 individual charities on behalf of 60 MDRT member volunteers.

The grants were presented by the 1994 MDRT Foundation President Gene L. Mahu of Thousand Oaks, Calif., during the MDRT Foundation reception at the 1994 MDRT Annual Meeting in Dallas, Texas.

The MDRT Foundation is the philanthropic arm of the Million Dollar Round Table, an international, independent association of nearly 19,000 leading life insurance agents, each of whom has met strict ethical and production requirements to qualify.

From Big Bands to the Big Three

Like many people, Jill Phillips has made career changes. Fifteen years ago, she was performing on stage with legendary acts such as jazz great Count Basie. Today, she's front and center as a corporate attorney for Ford Motor Co. — and she thanks Oakland Community College for getting her there.

Jill came to OCC as a single parent in her 30s. She graduated, received a scholarship to a university and another to law school. Today, she's licensed to practice law in three states — and still knows how to work a tough audience.
