FOR PUBLIC CONTROL
MAIL FOR REGULATION AS WELL
AS PUBLICITY.

SAYS BOTH HERE TO STAY

Frank Recognition of Public Rights by the President of Western Union and Telephone Companies.

Public regulation of public service corporations has come to stay. It ought to have come and it ought to stay. That is the flat and unequivocal assertion of Theodore N. Vail, president of both the American Telephone and Telegraph company and the Western Union Telegraph company. It came in the form of his annual report to the seventy thousand stockholders of the two great corporations. Although Mr. Vail's advocacy of full publicity in connection with the affairs of such concerns was well understood, nobody in financial circles had anticipated a frank avowal of full publicity in the shaping of their general conduct. It came consequently as a surprise, not only because of its novelty and frankness, but also because of the unqualified acquiescence of a board of directors comprising such eminent and conservative financiers as Robert Wilson of Kidder, Peabody & Co. and Henry L. Hibbard of Boston, Henry P. Davis of J. P. Morgan & Co.; Senator W. Murray Chase, George P. Baer, T. Jefferson Coolidge Jr., Norman W. Harris, John I. Waterbury and others.

President Vail's declaration is regarded as the first recognition of these high corporate authority of the justice of the demand that the public be regarded as virtual partners in all matters that pertain to the common welfare. He goes directly to the point. "Public control or regulation of public service corporations by permanent commissions," he says, "has come and come to stay. Control, or regulation, to be effective means publicity; it means semi-public discussion and consideration before action; it means everything which is the opposite of secretiveness with effective competition. Competition—aggressive, effective competition—means strife, industrial warfare; it means contention; it oftentimes means lack of cooperation and of respect to any means that the conscience of the enforcement of the laws will permit.

"Aggressive competition means duplication of plant and investment. The ultimate object of such competition is the possession of the field wholly or partially; therefore it means either ultimate combination on such basis and with such prices as will cover past losses, or it means loss of return on investment, and eventual loss of capital. However it be, all control of aggressive and controlled competition are eventually borne, directly or indirectly, by the public. Competition which is not aggressive, presupposes cooperative action, understanding, agreements, which result in general uniformity or harmony of action, which, in fact, is not competition but is combination, suitable for the time being. When thoroughly understood it will be found that 'control' will give more of the benefits and public advantages, which are expected to be realized. Such ownership will obtain them without the public burden of either the public officeholder or public debt or operating deficit.

"When through a wise and judicious state control and regulation all the advantages without any of the disadvantages of state ownership are secured, state ownership is deemed."

"If Mr. Vail is right," says Harper's Weekly, in a concise summarizing, "then it seems pretty plain that they are entered upon a new era in both economic and political. And it is the time we did it evolution is to supplement revolution as an efficient force in the development of civilization."

Unreliable Physiology.

I am a profound disbeliever in physiognomy. Features are false witnesses. Students of physiognomy wear masks of intelligence. I know business men who look like poets and poets who look like business men. Most genius invariably looks like idiots, and you pick out the man who looks most eminent in a party you are sure to find he is a nobody. I always distrust men who look mark the advance of a striking career. She seldom gives a man the gift of being great and looking great. She took care to lame Byron and deform Pope and disfigure Johnson. But the crowning example of her jealousy is Shakespeare. I have always been disappointed with Shakespeare's face. It does not live up to his poetry. It is dull, heavy and commonplace. Advertisers in London.

Vegetable Fancy Work.

"I have some particularly fine asparagus," the marketman told her one day, and he displayed a bunch for her admiration. Picked not three hours ago, she added.

Mrs. Brite looked at it with unaffected amazement. "Does it grow like that?" she asked. "I always supposed the cold-blooded advances of it."—Youth's Companion.
