Something to say

A glimpse at the future: A graduation ceremony was held recently at St. Paul's Lutheran School in Farmington Hills. The three speechmakers were Brittany Eilers, Michael Schatz and Laura Anton.

Village Green holds employee seminar

If you happened to be near the Hyatt Regency in Dearborn recently you might have been surprised by a marching band that strutted through the lobby. It was just 400 Village Green employees and the sward-winning Farmington Herrison High School marching band celebrating with a little pride.

For each of the past 10 years, Village Green Management for which the structure of the leading and maintenance from the degree of the control of the co toward teaching akills.

Terry Schwartz, Village Green CEO, stressed the point of thinking big.

"When we started this seminar "When we started this seminar 10 years ago, we had about 70 people attend, "Schwartz asid." I remember telling that group, the only way to improve is to think hig.
"That means having great customer service, outstanding operational systems, and the very best people. That's how the big companies do it. This year we had over 400 people attend this seminar, and I told them to keep thinking big."

The two-day event stressed education, team building, and employee motivation, and is an example of how the company thinks big.

Part of the event, "Upward Hound," is produced by Jimmy Whiteside Productions, a company that stages events for international organizations, like Chrysler Corporation, which brings thousands of employees.

Founded in 1919, the third generation owned Village Green Companies of Farmington Hills include Village Green Residential Properties, Village Green Construction, Village Green Construction, Village Green Construction, which brings Green Suites, and Village Green Communications.

Village Green Management Company markets and manages the firm's 25,000 apartments throughout the Midwest.
