Need a gift idea for Father's Day?

Let's not forget dear old dad, with Father's Day coming up Sunday.

Now if your father happens to be a bowler, your gift problems are solved by a quick trip to the local Bowling Pro Shop. There is a wide array of new products to select from; depending on your budget, you could spend as much as $200 for a new ball.

Do not expect to buy a good ball at the discount chain. They do not carry the top lines, nor offer professional service with regard to fitting and drilling. Bowling shoes are another consideration, if you know his shoes need replacement.

Here is a chance to select from a wide price range. Make sure they will exchange if the shoes do not fit properly, or if dad would like a different choice.

Accessory items might include wrist or elbow supports, and a variety of ball cleaning items specially formulated for the new reactive resins. Some of the pro shops are new carrying the Bowling Balls' necktie by Ralph Marlin, a perfect pick.

If you cannot decide on the right item, most pro shops will be happy to issue a gift certificate in any reasonable amount, if, on the other hand, you are the father, a hint or two in the right direction ought to get you exactly what you need.

Like a new bowling towel with the same brand name as your favorite ball or a shirt with the graphics "Happy Father's Day" on it...

When's Bowling Association had it 29th annual Men's Bowling Association had it 29th annual Awards Banquet. This group was chartered by ABC in 1940 and has served it's members for 55 years.
