Producer wins Telly Award

showcase and give recognition to outstanding non-network and cable TV commercials.

Several years later, the competition was expanded to include film and video productions. Over the past 15 years, the Telly Awards has become a well-known, highly respected competition that has been expanded to even include an international division.

Since its inception, winners and finalists have come from a large cross-section of agencies, production companies, television stations, cable operations and corporate video departments. The judges are top professionals in the field of production.

Imagine how Tracy must have felt when she heard the good news. She received a beautiful bronze statuette approximately 12 inches tall. It looks like a flying Oscar.

Her winning program was entered under the Travel/Tourism category of the competition entitled, "Natural Habitats."

Video footage was taken with her RCA 8-millimeter camera on several of her travel adventures to animals kingdoms. It was then transferred onto three-fourth inch tape, which is the format we use at Info TV-12.

Stars of the show include the polar bears of Churchill, Manitoba, the gray whales of Baja, Calif. and Mexico, and the harp seals of the Magdalen Islands, Quebec.

Tracy wrote an accompanying script and combined this with music to enhance her production.

You may watch "Natural Habitats" on Info TV-12 at 8 p.m. Friday, July 21 and 28.

Public response to Ozone Action days grows

BY KAREN OLIVER
STAFF WRITER

With temperatures breaking 100 degrees last Saturday, an Ozone Action day was called for in Farmington Hills.

"Ozone Action! days take place when the temperatures are excessive and there is very little wind or cloud coverage," said Deborah Cohen, spokesperson for the Clean Air Coalition. "These are days when the weather is conducive to the formation of ground level ozone."

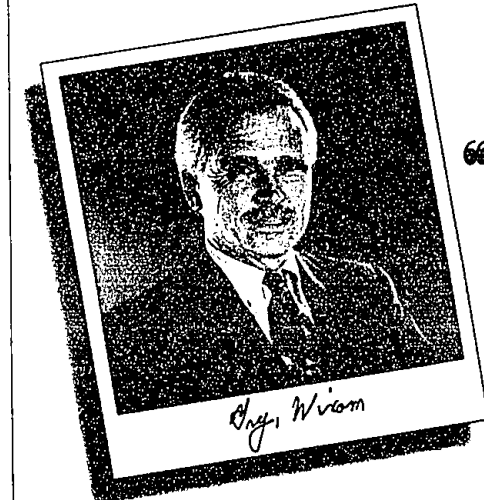

Begun last year in an attempt to reinstate southeastern Michigan with the label of having clean air, Ozone Action! days call for residents and businesses to take action against ozone formation on these designated days. Suggested forms of action include careful refueling of automobiles, carpooling, limiting driving and avoiding excessive idling of car engines. Not mowing the lawn with a gasoline-powered mower, avoiding oil-based paint and other solvents, and avoiding the use of charcoal lighter fluid when barbecuing are also recommended.

"The public response to this has been tremendous," said Cohen. "More than 600,000 homes in the area took Ozone Action! last year. This year the campaign has grown tremendously in the business area. People call in all the time with questions. They want to do the right thing."

Ozone Action! days were started by the Clean Air Coalition. There are 30 members of the coalition, including Detroit Edison, General Motors, Ford and Chrysler. The Southeast Michigan Council of Governments does work on behalf of the council. Southeastern Michigan is the third area in the country to begin such a program on behalf of keeping the air clean.

"Botsford's staff told me some things I didn't want to hear, but needed to hear."

Our parent company, Kawasaki Motors in California, started a worksite program based on Japan's concept of wellness and concern for employees' welfare. As Senior Manager at Kawasaki Robotics, I felt that our company would benefit from the Worksite Program at Botsford Center for Health Improvement because of their wellness philosophy.

We participated in three programs: Health Risk Appraisal, Microfit and Body Fat Analysis. In addition, we learned about nutrition and how to manage stress at a lunchtime lecture series.

The professional staff at Botsford Center for Health improvement treated us all as individuals — not like a production line. Because I'm a runner, I thought I was in pretty good shape. But they told me some things I didn't want to hear, but needed to hear. One of the things I'm more aware of now is keeping my cholesterol in check.

I think our company would also benefit from Botsford's Cardiac Risk Assessment Program. I'm hoping that the Worksite Wellness Program will become an annual event at Kawasaki Robotics.
