The Stanfield: A wide variety of living spaces, an open floor plan and an unusual two-floor library are featured in this Mediterranean-style home. See plans below.

Octagonal library highlights Stanfield

For a review plan, including scaled floor plans, elevations, section and artist's conception, send $15 to Associated Designs, 1100 Jacobs Dr., Eugene, OR 97402. Please specify the Stanfield 11-084 and include a return address when ordering. A catalog featuring over 170 house plans is available for $12. For more information call (800) 634-0123.

Stanfield 11-084
 Living Area 3881 sq.ft.
 Outside Dimensions: 66' x 66'

An octagonal study with a library loft is one of the most intriguing features of the Stanfield, a large, two-story Mediterranean-style house with a wide selection of living environments inside and out.

French doors to the left of a two-story high, naturally illuminated entry foyer open into the octagonal study. At the rear, a graceful wood and metal stairway circles up to a loft, open at the center, lined with bookshelves and arched windows.

Taking a few steps behind the stairway's upper landing puts you in a huge master suite, complete with sitting area, deck and luxurious bathroom. Amenities include twin basins, oversized shower, spa tub, and a deep walk-in closet with a roomy storage space behind. Two additional bedrooms share a bathroom outfitted with twin vanities. Linen storage and another big storage closet line the hallway.

A spacious, window-rich family room/kitchen is at the heart of the house. Sink and dishwasher nestle into a lengthy, wrap-around eating bar that faces into the family room. Other features include a walk-in pantry, hayed nook, entertainment center and fireplace. Laundry facilities are close by, in a generously sized utility room that connects to the three-car garage.

For outdoor dining, there's a screened porch to the left. The elegant vaulted dining room and living room are to the right. Columns or posts support a plant shelf that defines the boundary between the two, and both rooms offer sliding door access to a wrap-around covered patio.

A centrally located bathroom also serves the Stanfield's first floor guest bedroom.

New plastic product could pass for wood

A new family of non-wood, prefinished mouldings has been developed by ABT Building Products. The Affinity line is available at home centers here now, nationwide in January. Affinity, made of plastic, looks so much like wood, that it's difficult to distinguish from a natural wood product, ABT maintains. "Typically, most consumers doing remodeling will look at the cost of real wood and look at our product... and conclude for all intents and purposes it's an excellent replacement at about half the cost of premium wood," said Robert E. Crohan, product manager for the plastics division. "We are sold through mass merchandisers, as well as direct to contractors," he added. ABT has sales and administrative offices in Troy. The mouldings are manufactured in Indiana. Affinity won't warp or rot as wood can, which makes the moulding ideal for all climates including areas with high humidity, ABT states. The product doesn't require sanding, staining, priming or painting. By using prefinished moulding, homeowners greatly reduce the steps required to prepare for installation, resulting in significant savings of time and money. They simply measure, cut and install. Affinity's smooth satin finish and warm hues have been carefully chosen to match virtually any home decor. The moulding is available in three woodgrain colors — autumn, amber and natural — that range in appearance from bleached wood to dark honey. Customers who want to know where to purchase Affinity moulding can call ABT's customer service department at (800) 621-4250.
