Miss Lavilla Adams of this place gave a recital at the Y. W. C. A. in Detroit Tuesday evening which was largely attended. Miss Adams is a recent graduate under Mrs. Bolt, one of Detroit's best readers.

Farmington village had 346 children of school and the township 116 at the last report and they will receive $2422 and $812 respectively as their share of the May apportionment of the primary school interest fund.

The Odd Fellows went over to Plymouth Tuesday night with their class of 17 and gave them the second degree. Tonight they go to Detroit by special car for the third degree when the class will be full fledged members of the order.

M. E. topics for Sunday, May 21: Morning, "Hope for Our Times;" evening, "God's Plans Justified," being the fourteenth and concluding discourse in the evening series "When the World Was Young." Everybody welcome.

We have been requested to say something about the careless way in which papers are scattered and thrown in the streets and park. Farmington prides itself on being tidy and clean and having a beautiful little park in which one may sit and enjoy these hot days in summer. If each one would take a little pains in regard to throwing papers in the street, the work of keeping the park clean will be lessened considerably.

The G. A. R. commander gives notice of the program, as prepared for Memorial day. It would be well for each and every person to endeavor to lay aside all business for that afternoon and join with the old soldiers in their exercises. The day is sacred to those veterans who are left to us and it should be so considered by all others.

DANIEL KNEW WHEN TO JUMP

Did Not Wait to be Mixed up
With the Kindling Wood

If Motorman Daniel Curry had not had sufficient presence of mind to jump from his car Sunday afternoon when, because the brakes refused to work he saw that a collision was inevitable, he would likely have been seriously injured if not killed.

He was in charge of car No. 7110 which left Pontiac at 3:10 and was following another car as they were running double headers on account of the Sunday crowds.

When he found that the brakes would not respond he blew his whistle and jumped. The crash shook up the passengers somewhat, but no injuries were reported. The front vestibule of Curry's car was badly smashed, but the car in front was not seriously injured.

Will Observe Decoration Day

Decoration Day will be observed again this year and the high school will furnish the program as usual. Martial music has been secured and the march to Oakwood cemetery will leave from opposite the city hall at 1:00 p. m., headed by the band followed by the old soldiers and school children with flowers to decorate the graves and cenotaph. After the exercises by the grand army veterans the procession will counter-march to the hall where the program by the pupils and the music, speaking, etc., will take place. All children of adjoining schools are invited to bring flowers and participate.

By Order of Com.

The Memorial services will be held in the M. E. church in Farmington on Sunday, May 28th, at one o'clock p. m. Rev. Gullen will address the remnant of the Grand Army and others present. All are invited.

Ball Game Here Tomorrow

Tomorrow (Saturday) afternoon the Farmington ball team will play the Brightons at this place. The visiting team has annexed all the good players in their neighborhood, which includes Wixom and New Hudson, and are coming over with the intention of carrying home the big end of the score. There will doubtless be a big crowd out to see the game.

August Esch is Again in Trouble

August Esch is again in trouble and his case is in the courts. He was arrested for an alleged assault on his daughter, Mrs. Amelia Layaz. She charges that he choked her, while Esch maintains that he merely pushed her to one side during a family quarrel in which his son-in-law, August Layaz, took part.

Esch was arraigned Wednesday at Pontiac and pleaded not guilty. The trial was set for June 6 and bail in the sum of $500 was furnished by his neighbor, Charles Westfall.

J. E. PHELPS

Met for Their 30th. Anniversary

The Wayne Baptist association is composed of members of Baptist churches eighteen or more in number, situated from Holly on the north to Wayne on the south; Highland and Fowlerville on the west to Farmington and Hudson Avenue church in Detroit on the east.

The Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary society of these churches met in the Hudson Avenue church for its thirtieth anniversary Thursday, May 11th.

Mrs. J. L. Wilber of this place, who assisted at the organization of the society and held the offices of recording secretary and president consecutively for twenty-six years, attended this meeting, which from a retrospective point of view was somewhat lonely as most of the early workers have ceased from their labor.

The past year ten of our number have been given physical rest and today are in the Celestial City, which is four square, whose streets are as pure gold and where no tears, no pain, no death can ever mar or destroy.

For our faithful mission workers we can truly say with the poet: "There is no death." What seems so is transition; This life of mortal breath is but the suburb of the life elysian, Whose portal we call death."

Married Wednesday Afternoon

A very quiet wedding took place Wednesday afternoon, May 17, at the M. E. parsonage, when Miss Mina VasSickle and Mr. George W. Rider, both of Farmington, were united in marriage by Rev. G. E. Gullen. The happy couple left on the four o'clock car for Detroit and points east.

Women on School Boards.
Former Mayor Josiah Quincy said at a meeting the other day in Boston that the law should require that at least two women be members of the school board. As it is, while women have the privilege of voting for school committees, they are practically shut out from membership, as the number of women voting are few. He says that when the terms of the present members expire it should be so arranged that two women be elected and recommends a law to that effect.

Another Gift of Mrs. Sage.
