

Nutritious, delicious breads on the rise for Great Harvest Bread Co.

A first year success story for Dan and Janene Centurione.

The couple own the Great Harvest Bread Company in Birmingham, a specialty bakery featuring delicious and nutritious breads.

Dan and Janene Centurione literally jogged by the business idea of opening a bakery when they were living in Indianapolis. A Great Harvest Bread Co. store had opened along the path the couple jogged by every day. They were impressed with the Montana based bread company's commitment to healthy products. Selected as one of the first franchise owners, they started out with a store in Ann Arbor in 1992 and later added the second store in Birmingham in 1995.

"Our breads are made without any added fats, oils, additives or preservatives," Dan said. "The fact that they are made from all natural ingredients and that they have a two week shelf life is very important to people who care about maintaining a healthy lifestyle and enjoying great breads."

The most popular type of bread the Artisan bakers make is the Honey Whole Wheat, Centurione said. Other top sellers include the Farmhouse White and the Nine Grain Bread.

Look for cookies, muffins, scones and a wide range of fruit, nut and seasonal breads that change each month.

"Our bread and butter so to speak is really the bread zealot, those customers who come in every week or more often. We've developed a lot of wonderful friendships and enjoy the time spent getting to know customers and their tastes and desires."

Great Harvest Bread Company is located at 1137 S. Adams Road, corner of Adams and Lincoln, in Birmingham. The store hours are Tuesday through Saturday from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m., 810-433-1833.

Janene invites everyone to, "Stop in and try a hot slice of bread. We know the steamy windows and aroma of fresh baked bread you remember from your grandmother's kitchen will bring you back."

Euromoda offers sleek, modular furniture

What's sleek, modular, interchangeable, functional, practical, durable, sophisticated and now available to area residents?

It's the beautiful furniture offered by Euromoda, a Birmingham based furniture showroom that imports the most up-to-date furniture styles from Europe.

"The furniture lines in Europe, especially in Italy, are all modular. Their composition of elements and finishes allows designers and home-owners to customize the furniture to complement their lifestyles." For instance, Italian manufacturer, VERARDO offers a complete modular wall unit system and closet systems all of solid cherry wood, walnut, matte lacquer or any combination thereof. The versatility is truly impressive.

"The European contemporary look is very distinctive from what United States manufactures commonly refer to as contemporary," Hancock said. She described the look as a "simple, classic design...attention to clean lines and an array of colors are very important."

Of course, the best way to get a handle on what this sophisticated, distinctive style of furnishings is all about is to come into the showroom and experience for yourself.

The showroom's owner is Giovanni Ferrazzo, a native of Italy. Ferrazzo has countless contacts within the Italian furniture community and travels to Milan annually and returns with the latest design solutions. He is able to introduce many furniture lines that have never been available in the United States before. That means shoppers are sure to find unique furniture selections when they come to Euromoda. Showroom Manager Diane Hancock has a degree in both Architecture and in Interior Architecture.

The showroom is located at 1631 S. Woodward in Birmingham. The phone number is (810) 647-5211. Though the showroom has only been open for eight months, it is already a leading success. Stop in soon and see what all the excitement is about.
