

Village Inn Hotel guests enjoy congenial hospitality

There's no place to stay like home. But if you can't sleep at home the next best place is the Village Inn Hotel in Birmingham.

This cozy, quaint inn is located in the heart of downtown Birmingham. The inn offers three main qualities that make it a perennial favorite among guests.

- congenial hospitality
- personal service
- reasonable rates

because it's such a terrific value.

Once people stay at the Village Inn Hotel, they wind up coming back again and again.

"We have a tremendous guest return rate," she said.

The inn offers meeting space, group rates and special packages, some of which include dinner and deluxe accommodations.

Because the Village Inn Hotel is close to downtown Birmingham it's Ask Lauriann Prohaska, general manager of the Village Inn Hotel, what makes the Village Inn Hotel special and she immediately knows what to say.

"It's a small, intimate property that offers very personal service."

The Village Inn Hotel is owned by Bud and Calvin Chamberlain, founders of Chamberlain Real Estate. Chamberlain Real Estate is widely easy for guests to find many fun entertainment activities close by.

"With our congenial hospitality, comfortable rooms, friendly staff and convenient location, staying at the inn is a terrific opportunity to get away," she said.

If you're planning a special business meeting or a seminar, the Birmingham Village Inn offers meeting rooms. It's a quiet, peaceful setting for you to con-known throughout the metropolitan Detroit area for being a leader in residential home sales.

Prohaska came on board as the Village Inn Hotel's general manager in 1994.

The inn was renovated in October of 1995 and guests have been raving about this cozy place to stay.

"There's an understated elegance about the property," Prohaska said. "We give very personal service."

She said that about 60 percent of the business Village Inn Hotel does is corporate, noting that many companies add their business travelers there duct business.
