the day, there will be achibits and activities concerning nature and the environment. Admission is free.

Exhibitors Beverly Cornell, a Farmington Hills resident, will provide information on foster care for animals. The Hill and Dale Garden Club will offer a plant swap and sale. Science Alive will present hands-on exhibits of rep-tiles and birds.

Also, participants should bring old shoes for recycling at the Sec-ound Chance Shoes exhibit. The Resource Recovery and Recycling Authority of Southwest Oakland County will present information on recycling.

The festival is co-sponsored by Team Farmington Special Olym-pics and the Department of Spe-cial Services.
