Uptown Theatre opens Wednesday in Birmingham

The long-awaited reopening of the Birmingham Theatre is close at hand. On Wednesday, May 22, the new Uptown Birmingham Theatre, 211 S. Woodward, will open with a full roster of films.

Local entrepreneurs David Trepeck and Carole Ilitch Trepeck, along with partner Bill Harting, formed Uptown Theatre, Inc. Their first project is to open the new Uptown Birmingham Theatre, which is leased from Ted Fuller.

"We're excited to bring the magic of movies back to Birmingham," said Carole Ilitch Trepeck. "We truly believe that the Uptown Birmingham will have a positive impact on the community."

The concession stands will boast a selection of treats ranging from real buttered popcorn, gourmet pretzels, Gayle's Chocolates, gourmet coffees, pizza and traditional movie candies.

Parking is available in the Panbody Street structure, connected to the theater by a courtyard entrance, as well as in the Pierce Street structure. Parking at these structures will be free.
