The Other Side of the Question

Doubtless the communication in the Enterprise of June 16th has been carefully read with various comments on the thoughts found therein. The tone of the article is very materialistic as it is noticed that the object to be obtained by the church is the physical, social and moral need of a community; all of this life which is a laudible work for all citizens. We think the aim and purpose of the christian church has a deeper, higher and eternal result in view. The members are expected to have reached the position of adoption into the church through and by the six steps—conviction, conversion, repentance, obedience, faith and love—and pledged allegiance to the head of the kingdom of God. Christian fellowship and church fellowship are two distinct facts. The first should be cultivated to the uttermost. Denominationalism growing out of church fellowship is as necessary as our individuality.

We find examples, precepts in guide book for a correct walk in the christian life and no example, precept or doctrine which Jesus gave to his disciples for our good can be lightly set aside or divided as to essential or non-essential. He is the central and only authority of all christians. Those who hold that Jesus Christ was the son the God and divine, who trust their spiritual life and divine happiness on that fact cannot church fellowship those who say it does not matter whether He was divine or not, He was a good, man and a great teacher. If He was not divine the bible is not true and He was not good.

Ecclesiastical officials have no greater desire for peace among the churches than leaders of less high standing, neither will their declaration be binding only where church fellowship is recognized as it should be. Then a Methodist church and a Baptist church can work in the same town in their distinctive way without quarrel or controversy.

We may look for the church reform spoken of as soon as our great governmental parties, Republican, Democrat and Prohibition, become merged into one great party, which has no distinctive belief or purpose in government.

"The day of institutional care of childhood and youth is rapidly passing away. Our penal institutions are being changed into cottage homes."

The place for our young people out of school hours is in the home with father and mother to become responsible citizens by the exercise of home duties. The kitchen, sewing room, garden, lawn mowing, all furnished good gymnastic exercises and under the best of chaperonage.

FATHER AND MOTHER.

WILL SEE CIRCUS AT PONTIAC

Thousands from This Section to Visit Forepaugh and Sells Bros. Shows

Thousands of people from Farmington and immediate neighborhood will see Forepaugh and Sells Bros.' big circus at Pontiac on Thursday, July 6. Transportation lines are preparing for the day and indications point to a great circus event.

The Forepaugh and Sells Bros. organization this season is remarkably attractive, more so than ever before in its fifty years of travel. The performance is being given by the world's 400 best artists, the menagerie has been newly reorganized and the forenoon parade is a masterpiece of pageantry. The thrills of the show are the double somersaulting automobile, the Ty-Bells "Human Butterfly" act and the sensational wild riding of the Pajara family of Gypsies.

Capt. Webb's two troupes of riding and juggling seals, Taylor's wonderful monkey and dog circus, the Hines-Kimball troupe of acrobats, the Alvo, the Alpine and the La Fayette families of acrobats, and the fifty funniest clowns on earth are a few of the more prominent features. There are over 100 big acts, all novelties and the entire show is newly equipped and costumed. Over $3,000,000 has been spent in building the new outfit and the result is dazzling.

For many years the Forepaugh and Sells Brothers' circus has been the pattern of excellence. This year it is vastly improved and enlarged. It now travels on a train more than one mile in length. Its many tents cover ten acres of ground and it gives employment to 1,124 men, women and children. In the menagerie are 728 of the rarest specimens of animal life and in the canvas stables are 530 of the finest horses in the world. The parade equipment was all built last winter in the foreign workshop of the show near Liverpool. The work was done by the best artists, designers, sculptors and spectacle builders of France and Italy.

Lost—A double, wool shawl, black and white, between Farmington and W. H. Sprague's on Tuesday night. Finder will be rewarded for returning same to W. H. Sprague's.

WHERE DYNAMITE IS KING

Stupendous Job of Tunneling and Filling Being Done in New Jersey Mountains.

When the grandfather of the present car found his engineers disputing as to the best route for a railway between two cities in his domain, the autocut took rules and pencil and drew on the map a straight line from the one town to the other.

"Build it so!" he commanded, "And he was obeyed."

That was the freak of despotism. In this present century, skilled engineers set themselves a like task at a snail's bidding. Up in the mountains of New Jersey today a great railway is busy with a cut-off that, when completed, will shorten the right of way by a few miles. Incidentally, this is the largest railroad contract ever undertaken. The cut-off is being built to save miles—nothing else. To that end, the topography of the country is disregarded as recklessly as the czar disregarded it in Russia aforetime. Simply, the road must run where the company wishes it to run, not where nature offers a path. A mountain in the way must be tunneled, a valley that interposes must be filled.

It is for this sort of work that the god of dynamite glids up his lones and piles miracle on miracle in achievement. About thirteen cars loaded with dynamite are sent to the cut-off from the nearest powder works each week. Allowing four hundred and fifty cases, of fifty pounds each, to a car, we have a total of 292,500 pounds used there in a single month, which amounts to almost ten thousand pounds daily. Just this much of ten thousand pounds of dynamite exploded in that nook and the mountains every day! And that has been going on for a year already, and the end is not yet.

The Useful Killdeer.

The Killdeer, if it is eaten at all in this part of the country, cannot stand in high favor. There is no talk of killdeer hunting. They are not to be perceived in the string of birds the successful hunter likes to display. But there are pathetic evidence to be noted on the beaches that those "sportsmen" who shoot at anything living find in the killdeer a target to their liking.

In a bulletin just put out by the agriculture department it appears that this beautiful, if somewhat unattractive bird, renders very efficient service to mankind. It preys upon mosquito larvae. The diving beetle, a great enemy to the fish hatcheries, and destructive to fish food, is a titbit very much to the taste of the killdeer. He is an industrious hunter of the crayfish which are a nuisance where marshland is dyked. He follows the plow of the farmer and picks up grubs, cut worms, leaf beetles and other pests of agriculture. He eats little or no vegetable food, and probably then, as in the case of the quail, only if he can find no insects—Toledo Blade.
