one," Oglesby said.

Some may say that challenge would be attracting the mainly older crowd in Farmington to a shop that mainly appeals to younger adults. She is more concerned with the location of her customers.

More than 70 percent of her clientele mailings are to people living outside the city.

"I do get a lot of out of towners," she said, adding that customers are generally from the Oakland County area.

But Oglesby doesn't plan to relocate her business.

"I made it through my first year and I'm not going anywhere," she said.

The 23-year-old had many reasons for locating her business in her hometown.

"I've lived here all my life," she said. "I worked at Yin Yang... and basically I've made jewelry all of my life."

Oglesby also works as a night manager at the Civic Theatre, which is right next door to her business. And just a few doors down, is her father, attorney Ronald Oglesby's law firm.

Oglesby credits local business owners, the Farmington Downtown Development Authority and the Downtown Farmington Business Association with making her transition to business owner a little easier.

She stressed that her shop is "completely different" from the former bead store.

"I wanted the same idea," however, Oglesby said, "I think I expanded on the beads."

You can buy jewelry ready-made at Bead Bohemia, but most customers enjoy designing their own creations. The costs average less than $10 to purchase items to make a jewelry item.

The added attraction of Bead Bohemia, Oglesby said, is personalized service. Oglesby stressed that larger bead stores are sometimes unable to assist their customers with purchases. Not only will Oglesby help customers pick out the right combinations, she will also assist them in making the items.

Jewelry can be fun or formal at Bead Bohemia which has catered to requests of brides, providing elegant beads made of glass, crystal, and various stones.

Bead Bohemia is open noon to 5 p.m. Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays; noon to 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays; and 12 to 5 p.m. Sundays. It's closed on Mondays.

Dentistry in the 90s

BRIDGE TO THE FUTURE

The fixed dental restoration known as a bridge is commonly used to replace no more than four adjacent front teeth or two side teeth. Like a highway bridge, it is supported by two abutments, which are sound teeth on either side of the gap. The span, or "pontic," is a metal framework attached to the abutments at each end, with the necessary number of attached artificial teeth. When properly crafted, the artificial teeth and abutment crowns should not only match the contour and color of natural teeth, but they should appear to be growing out of the gums. However, the pontic should barely touch the gums because exerting unnecessary pressure on the gums and underlying bone can damage them. There should also be sufficient space on the underside of the pontic so that dental floss can be passed beneath it to keep it clean.

If you need answers to your questions about bridges, don't hesitate to contact us at LIVONIA VILLAGE DENTAL ASSOCIATES. Our recommendations for dental treatment are always in the best interest of the patient.
