Botsford hosts prime time for women

For women ages 40 and over, the difference between seeing their lives in terms of "over the hill" and "prime time" has nothing to do with age and everything to do with attitude.

That's the philosophy behind a special event planned Saturday, Feb. 1, from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. that will offer thought provoking mini seminars designed for women who want to get the most out of life as they evolve into their own prime time.

Starting off with a continental breakfast and a jump start keynote address by WKBD Channel 50 reporter Cynthia Anty, attendees can choose from sessions ranging from medical, health and lifestyle topics.

Presentations will include preparing easy to make, nutritious meals by chef Larry Jones; knowing menopause and perimenopause facts from fiction; learning practical techniques for reducing stress; preventing osteoporosis and heart disease; and even looking great through a makeup and fashion demonstration by Parisian department store.

The cost for Prime Time for Women is $25 per person, which includes continental breakfast and lunch, and takes place at the Ziegler Center on the Botsford General Hospital grounds, 98050 Grand River. Pre-registration is required. Please call 442-7986 for more information.
