Lisa Park's Knits closes shop

Lisa Park's Knits, a Birmingham boutique specializing in handknit sweaters and unique accessories, will close Sept. 1 according to owner Lisa Park.

"It's time for a major change in my life," Park said. "I believe everyone has to evaluate their life every four-five years. . . I've graduated from this part of retailing. My customers have 10-15 sweaters in their closet. I have a wonderful opportunity to sell my sweaters nationally, which has been my life-long goal. I can't keep working at the store retail hours and design, manufacture and promote my designs nationally at the same time."

"One door closes, another opens—that's the story of my life. That's the history of retail," Park said.

Park began selling sweaters from her home in 1982. Her colorful storefront on East Maple has been a Birmingham landmark since 1983 when she opened her first store in the second story loft. The Ron Rhein-designed store was an instant hit. It paved the way for other retailers to sell merchandise in a creative environment.
