Disporate musical tastos along with world and U.S. politics are discussion topic at the sub's men's breakfast meeting at the Ram's Horn on Orchard Lake. Nine or so of the aub's maile population gather weekly to chat and chew.

Dunn started the trend in order to get one of the sub's residents out of his house after he'd retired.

doean't make them unfriendly to outsiders.

Mary Ann Reilly, who lives in Rolling Oaks subdivision, walks her hulking bow-weiller' named "Jazz" through West Frankling Estates' tree-lined dirt ronds. She has both hands gripped on the leash as neighbors welcome she and her dog with open arms. "His mother was a rottweiller; Dad was a bovier that jumped the fence," said Reilly, explaining the dog's breed to Dunn and Silverborg, "He saw two rabbits and a groundhog today. That
