MAKING GREAT SHIPS SAFE

Marine Architects Have Displayed
Marvelous Ingenuity in Guarding
Against Accidents at Sea.

In the hands of a skillful marine architect much more has been accomplished with steel construction than the mere economy of space. The safety of vessels at sea has been enormously increased, until in the highest type of modern ocean liners the element of danger is virtually eliminated. The marvelous ingenuity displayed throughout this great fabric of steel in guarding against every possible contingency of the sea comes to the average landsman as a surprise. A great liner of 50,000 tons may be controlled by a single hand. The complicated machinery for safeguarding the ship is practically automatic.

The bottom of the great hull of the liner is doubled, the inner shell being strong enough to float the ship even if the outer hull be completely torn away. It is exceedingly unlikely that water would ever reach this inner shell through accident to the main hull, but the precaution is taken so that if once on shore, it would, indeed, very serious strike a hidden object, it will prove absolutely invulnerable. The shipwrecks of the past caused by running upon hidden rocks, reefs and icebergs are thus completely eliminated.—M. B. Cea, in Cassier's Magazine.

SAILORS KNEW "WHAT NEXT"

Dramatic Climax of Whitefield in a Sermon to Seamen Brought Forth Unexpected Answer.

Whitefield, whose dramatic appeals to his listeners were always a noteworthy part of his sermons, once preached to a body of seamen in New York. In the course of his sermon he introduced the following words:

"Well, my boys, we have a clear sky, and are making fine headway over a smooth sea, before a light breeze, and we shall soon lose sight of land; but what means this sudden lowering of the heavens and that dark cloud rising from the western horizon? Hark! Don't you hear the distant thunder? Don't you see those flashings of lightning? There is a storm gathering! Every man to his duty! How the waves rise and dash against the ship! The air is dark! The tempest rages! Our masts are gone! The ship is on her beam ends! What next?"

The hands of every sailor were gripping the pews in front of them and a wild excitement was in their eyes. And when the preacher reached the climax of his dramatic speech they sprang to their feet in a body and shouted, "Take to the longboat!"—New York Sun.

BELL RINGING EXTRAORDINARY.

The enthusiasm with which the Flemish people welcome their national musical instrument has been demonstrated in the recent inauguration of a new set of chimes at Ypres, in West Flanders. The population and the authorities, in order to show how much they had at heart the revival of the chimes, commemorated the occasion by holding a fête of public rejoicing and illuminating the principal buildings of the town at night, while the bells did not cease to ring throughout the whole day. The inhabitants of Flanders take a positive delight and pride in possessing a competent bell ringer, whose time is largely spent at competitive bell ringers' meetings, which often bring together great numbers of candidates.

NOVEL USE FOR TELEPHONE.

The uses to which the telephone can be put are infinite—in California. The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company of San Francisco recently received complaints from farmers on a telephone circuit near Madero, Cal., that their line would be disconnected every Friday and remain so for two days. Investigation was made, and it was found that a farmer's wife was in the habit of taking her telephone receiver off the hook every Friday, and using it during that day and the next as a darning ball in mending the socks of the farm hands.

NO USE TO STRUGGLE.

"I wish I were a man of stronger character."
"What do you mean?"
"I hate to have the barber sell me everything on his bill of fare every time I go in for a shave."—No change.
