MARX WINS AWARD AT NEW YORK FESTIVAL

Sue Marx and Allyson Rockwell received a Finalist Award for their collaboration, "Cranbrook: The Evolution of a Dream," from the New York Festivals.

Marx and Rockwell's film was the only entry to also receive an award in the architecture and design category.

The film is part of a series which documents major architectural projects by internationally acclaimed architects currently under way at Cranbrook.

These projects include major additions to the Brookside School, the Science Institute, new athletic complex and expanded gallery space for the art academy.

The series is expected to be completed by 2000.

Contributors to the film include Marsha Miro, Christa Kindt, Bob Berg, Joelle Boykin, Ed Kukla and Joseph Lo Duc.

HUDSON'S TEAM 500 EXCEEDS FUNDRAISING GOAL

Hudson's has raised more than $1.6 million on behalf of 10 Detroit arts and cultural organizations, including Center for Creative Studies, Detroit Children's Museum, Detroit Historical Society, Detroit Institute of Arts, Detroit Public Library, Detroit Science Center, Detroit Symphony Orchestra Hall, International Institute, Museum of African American History and Your Heritage House.

The Team 500 project began last May. Hudson's donated an initial $500,000 which was shared by the 10 cultural institutions. The goal of raising $500,000 will be matched by another $500,000 by Hudson's.

Included in the fundraising events was a benefit performance by Tina Turner last September at the DIA.

Over the last 15 years, Hudson's has awarded more than $20 million to nonprofit organizations.

PEABO BRYSON TO PERFORM IN

MOT'S "PORGY & BESS"

Two-time Oscar and Grammy Award-winner Peabo Bryson will make his operatic debut in the Michigan Opera Theatre's "Porgy and Bess," May 31-June 14 at the Detroit Opera House.

Bryson, known for such hits as "Aldrin's Theme," and "Tonight I Celebrate My Love," will play the role of Sportin' Life in Gerwin's classic.

Goggin heads up PCCA's P.R.

Jack Goggin has been named the new public relations coordinator at the Point Creek Center for the Arts (PCCA) in Rochester.

Goggin was formerly the overnight announcer for the classical music station WQRS-FM. The station changed formats last November.

From 1994-1997, Goggin wrote and produced "Film Notes: The Music of the Movies," a nationally syndicated program. He also hosted live musical presentations, including the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

Goggin has a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Missouri.

PCCA is a nonprofit community art center offering contemporary exhibits and studio art classes. Its major Jack Goggin fundraiser, the Art and Apples Festival, is held every September.

Often called a cross-over artist because of his international popularity in pop and jazz music, Bryson's presence is expected to attract a broader audience to MOT's upcoming production.

WILD GIFTS FOR YOUR VALENTINE

If you're tired of buying your loved one the same boring gift for Valentine's Day, the Detroit Zoo suggests something creative—and wild.

The Detroit Zoological Society offers expressions of love to last the whole year when you adopt an animal such as a polar bear, red panda, Siberian tiger, or river otter.

Adoptions start at $25 and includes sponsorship of an animal of your choice for one year, a photo of the type of animal you adopt, a certificate of adoption suitable for framing, a biannual newsletter, and a fact sheet about your zebra or penguin. There are more than 100 animals available to adopt.

Just in time for Feb. 14, the Wildlife Preservers Valentine's Day package sweetens the $25 sponsorship by including a box of Goggin's chocolates and a cuddly bean-bag replicate of the animal you adopt. The red panda, polar bear, Siberian tiger, Grevy's zebra, dart poison frog, and rock-hopper penguin are available for $50 in the special Valentine package. For a unique way to tell your loved one that there's no "otter" person quite like them, a river otter in the new exhibit can be adopted for $55 and includes a plush otter.

Proceeds from the adoption program are used for veterinary care, exhibit renovations, educational classes, seminars, and to support the Species Survival Program. All sponsorships are 100 percent tax deductible.

So take a walk on the wild side this Valentine's Day, call (248) 641-5717.

POETRY READING

Diane Wakoski, poet-in-residence and English professor at Michigan State University, reads from her works 7 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 11 in room 110 of the McDowell Center at Schoolcraft College, 18500 Haggerty Road, Livonia. Admission is free.

Wakoski is a nationally recognized poet and author of more than 20 volumes of poetry including "The Collected Greed," "Medea the Sorceress," "Jason the Sailor," and "Emerald Ice" which won the William Carlos Williams prize.

CALL FOR ARTISTS

The Arts League of Michigan is looking for African American, Asian American, Hispanic American, and Native American female fine artists and craft artisans for a juried touring exhibition titled "She Be Me." Deadline for receipt of entries (not postmarked) is Feb. 12.

Mediums include printmaking, photography, sculpture, watercolor, oils, jewelry, metal, ceramics, fiber, and papers. Subject matter should deal with relationships (parenting, siblings, family, love, friendships, community), cultural/community icons (women who have made a difference), or autobiographical memories (personal histories, sharing your story). Each artist selected to exhibit receives a participation honorarium of $400. An additional $400 fee will be paid to those artists selected to present a community arts education seminar.

For more information, call (313) 577-1371.

Dreamy: The Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association has installed "Cloud Mountain," a sculpture by Isamu Noguchi. The prototype of an edition of 18 is made of galvanized steel. The sculpture appears in the BBA's glass-enclosed interior atrium, and was made possible by a long-term loan from the Isamu Noguchi Foundation.
