

Malthoid Roofing

The dependability of Malthoid Roofing has been proven by special tests covering a period of many years.

Made in the largest factory in the world—it is absolutely right in every detail.

It resists fire—
is acid proof—
water and weather proof—
Keeps heat in the building in winter.

Keeps it out in summer. Malthoid will last as long as the building it covers.

It is inexpensive easy to lay and your roof troubles are over when Malthoid is laid.

If you doubt ask General Bradstreet to give you a line on Malthoid Makers—The Paraffine Paint Co. of San Francisco and Chicago

Local News

The Ladies' Union meets with Mrs. Thayer next Thursday.

Mrs. Augie Hueston of Northville was a caller here Friday.

Fred A. Bean of Detroit was a guest at Lyman Sprague's last Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Sprague of Cleveland are happy in the arrival of a daughter August 26.

Miss Belle Mason of Chicago is spending a few weeks with her cousins, the Misses Nelson.

Another jail escape at Pontiac. Imprisoned dogs, in the city pound, chewed their way out Tuesday morning.

Thursday was children's day at the Millard fair and Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Schroder went over in their Ford runabout.

Mrs. May L. Oldenburg of Los Angeles, California, is visiting her sisters, the Misses Nelson. She will spend the winter here.

"The inquest to inquire into the death of Motorman Lowe, who was killed by leaping from his car at Oak Grove on Sept. 2, has been adjourned to next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fitch of Owosso have been spending a few days among relatives and friends here, the latter being a daughter of Hiram White, a former resident of this place.

The sinking of the test well for the new water system has been delayed because the well diggers have not got through with some other job on which they are engaged. They are expected very soon however.

A goodly congregation gathered Sunday in the Baptist at 2:30 p. m. for the funeral service of Horace Wikom, who died at his home in Northville. Rev. Murdoch of that place conducted the service.

Floyd Nichols and John Johnson have each placed an order for a new automobile. They chose a Jackson five-passenger machine and Johnson gets his this fall while Nichols' order is for spring delivery.

In the show windows of L. C. Schroder's store is a fine display of gold fish in glass globes. The fish are given as prizes to cash customers, ten dollars in trade winning two fish and a globe. Coupons are issued with cash purchases.

The work is progressing nicely on the new electric light line being run into Farmington and very soon the wire will be strung. Fred Lee is still engaged in wiring residences and business places and the town will be about ready for the service when the company gets the current here.

Sixteen pupils, and sometimes more, get off the eight o'clock car from the east and many come from other directions to attend the Farmington schools. A large proportion of these are non-residents of the district and it appears to be a pretty good sign of the popularity and reputation that the school enjoys.

Presches Annual Sermon.

What is known locally as "The Vegetable Sermon" was given recently by the Rev. of Stropney, England, in the Methodist church. The origin of the sermon goes back almost two centuries. Thomas Fairchild, a Hotten gardener, who died in 1719, bequeathed a sum of money for the purpose of having a preacher to deliver a lecture in the church "in the afternoon of Tuesday in every Whitson week." The lecture must be one of the two following subjects: "The Wonderful Works of God in Creation" or "The Certainty of the Resurrection of the Dead, as Evidenced by Changes in the Animal and Vegetable Parts of the Creation." The lecture was first preached in 1780 and has been delivered annually ever since.

Advocate Elites.

Elites is the element in which great things fashion themselves to gether, that at length they may emerge full grown and majestic, into the daylight of life, which they are henceforth to rule. All the considerable men I have known forebore to bubble of what they were creating and projecting. Nay, in their own perplexities, do thou thyself but hold thy tongue for one day; on the morrow how much clearer are thy purposes and duties; whether wreck and ruin have these mute workmen within thee swept away when intrusive noises were shut out—Maurice Masterbrook.

MAN FLOATS A WHOLE DAY

Indifferent Swimmer Keeps Afloat in Ocean by Pure Life-Saving Instinct.

A French fisherman, a most indifferent swimmer, was knocked overboard in a storm twenty miles from the French coast, going into the briny with all his clothing on, including oilskins and heavy rubber boots. Almost twenty-four hours afterward two men working a small boat along the French coast, picking up eel pots near the mouth of a creek, saw what appeared to be the nude body of a drowned man borne toward them by the incoming tide. They secured the body with a rope and towed it ashore. There, to their amazement, they detected signs of animation and, falling to work like the sensible men they were, soon restored the man to consciousness. It was the fisherman who had gone overboard in the storm.

The overboard fisherman, twenty miles from land, knew he could not swim far, but he also knew the human body is lighter than water, especially salt water, and will float indefinitely unless water is taken into the lungs and stomach. This fisherman managed to get off oilskins, rubber boots and at last every article of clothing. Thus freed, he floated and, the storm abating to a steady breeze shoreward, his slight swimming spurs were assisted in partly overcoming the ebb tide and he had the full benefit of two good tides carrying him toward shore. The man said he must have lost consciousness several hours before being picked up, but kept afloat by pure life saving instinct.

BEE CAUSED MOTOR WRECK

Sting of Pugnacious Insect Caused Driver to Lose His Control of the Steering Gear.

While motor car driving along Saybrook road at a rapid gait the other afternoon a little bee lighted on the nose of George Seale, son of William Seale, a wealthy resident of Brookline, Mass., who has his summer home at Essex, Conn. He involuntarily took both hands from the steering wheel, and the car, bounding across a ditch, near the residence of Henry Gladwin of Guilford, buried the autist beneath it.

Seal was badly hurt, several stitches being required to close a nasty gash in one of his thighs, and he was covered with minor cuts and scratches. Though dazed and insensible at first, he recovered sufficiently at his home to talk about the peculiar accident. He cannot understand how the bee kept pace with him long enough to sting, and how it stuck so tenaciously, as he was traveling at a fast pace. The car was only slightly damaged.

SUBWAY SIR WALTER RALEIGH

Young Man Discovers Way to Conquer Raging Torrent in Station Entrance.

When the train pulled in the other night, at One Hundred and Fifty-seventh street and Broadway, the passengers who alighted at the station thought for a moment they had been put off at Niagara. Instead, says the New York Times, the subway entrance there is at the foot of a goodly thunderbolt, fast enough, and down the grade the water of what seemed like 40 cloudbursts was pouring into the subway entrance. It rippled and foamed and down the stairs in a fearful series of cascades.

The residents of Washington Heights who were more anxious to get home than to gaze upon the damp loveliness of waterfalls began to think of ways and means of escape. Suddenly a man in brown silk socks and glossy tan shoes whisked off these articles of apparel, rolled up his trousers, stuffed Sleep and Happiness.

Dr. Henry Smith Williams, who wrote "The Science of Happiness," is an advocate of early rising. He made it almost a gospel in his book, and although he requires only about six hours' sleep himself he practices what he preaches and rises early. While writing "The Science of Happiness" he cut this period an hour or even two hours shorter for weeks at a stretch, not burning midnight oil, but retiring at a comparatively early hour and rising correspondingly early. As an example, Dr. Williams cites the elder Pliny. "It appears that in summer he always began his studies as soon as it was night; in winter generally at one in the morning, but never later than two and often at midnight. No man ever spent less time in bed; inasmuch that he would sometimes, without retiring from his books, take a short sleep and then pursue his studies."

Salt Rising bread can be got at L. C. Schroder's.
