

GOP incumbents fear exec will campaign for their challengers

As the May 12 filing deadline approaches, Oakland County Executive L. Brooks Patterson is casting a long political shadow.

Patterson, who has frequently feuded with the County Board of Commissioners, is believed to be involved in several individual races — in some cases targeting fellow Republicans in the Aug. 4 primary.

The executive's interest in commission races is readily acknowledged by Clarkson resident Rudy Lozano, who in addition to being an Oakland County Road commissioner is chair of the Oakland County Political Action Committee, which can offer invaluable financial support.

"Of course, the executive is active in some races," Lozano said Friday. "I know he's already supporting Steve Tolliver. And he will likely be involved in other commission races."

Tolliver is running in District 1 — Oxford, Brandon, Groveland, Holly and Rose townships — against well-known William Patterson in the GOP primary. Incumbent Ruth Johnson — with whom Patterson had a very public feud over the county's well inspection policies — is running for state representative.

One person who "definitely" sees Patterson in her primary contest is Donna Huntton of Clarkson. "My opponent (State Rep. David Galloway) boasts about having Patterson's support," she said.

Galloway is a White Lake Republican who cannot seek reelection because of term limits. While he had not filed nominating petitions as of Friday, he announced his candidacy in March, when he also indicated he was supported by the executive.

Patterson also signed invitations to a Galloway fund raiser on May 7.

Huntton said she doesn't know what may have prompted the executive to take sides in the Republican primary. "But I did serve on the Well Committee," she said, referring to the committee that recommended a well inspection policy with which Patterson took exception. "That didn't make me very popular with Brooks."

Huntton said she isn't intimidated. "I've worked hard, and I'm willing to run on my record and let the chips fall where they may."

Commissioner Fran Amos, whose 5th District includes part of West Bloomfield, is somewhat concerned that Patterson — as well as County Clerk Lynn D. Allen — is hosting a fund raiser on behalf of her primary opponent Gene Seets.

"Brooks is my constituent," said Amos, "and Mr. Seets is his (Brooks') barber."

Despite having the county's most prominent Republican in the camp of her opponent, Amos is confident. "I've worked very hard," she said. "And I believe voters will see that."

"But what is this (the executive's involvement) going to do to relations in the future?" she asked. "Some of us are going to win despite Patterson's involvement, and yet we'll have to work with him in the future."

As for Allen backing her opponent, Amos wasn't quite as concerned. "I asked Lynn about that, and he had a plausible explanation — Seets is a neighbor."

'Of course (Oakland County Executive L. Brooks Patterson) is active in some races.'

Although he has no hard evidence, commissioner John P. Garfield believes Patterson will encourage a candidate to run against him in the 8th District that includes part of Rochester Hills.

Asked why the executive would do such a thing, Garfield cited his own independence and occasional refusal to side with Patterson.

Garfield was vocal, for example, against the county providing $3 million to the Chrysler Corp. to be parlayed with state and federal funds for an additional ramp from its world headquarters onto I-75 — a project supported and pushed by the executive.

Patterson's involvement — whatever it might be — may never be fully known.

But those close to county government acknowledge that candidates can be "very touchy" in a political year and prone to seeing ghosts.

The late Lawrence R. Pernick, the Democratic commissioner from Southfield who died last year, often referred to election years as "the silly season," said one commissioner, who asked to remain anonymous. "It's a time when we can be very touchy, even approaching paranoid," she said.

Kidney Foundation walk is set for May 16

The Detroit Zoo will be the site for the National Kidney Foundation of Michigan Second Annual Step-By-Step for a Cure Safari Walk on Saturday, May 16.

Over 1600 walkers are expected to join the NKF for this exciting event. There are prizes for all participants and a top prize will be awarded to the walker who collects the most donations. Local celebrities will be on hand to help greet guests. In addition to the financial support, the Walk provides an excellent opportunity to educate the public about the dangers of kidney disease and the importance of organ donation.

"High blood pressure and diabetes, the two leading causes of kidney failure, often go undetected until it is too late. The Foundation feels it is important to educate the public about the dangers and warning signs of kidney disease and encourages families to participate in this fun-filled event so that everyone may learn," states Dan Carney, executive director of the Foundation.

The festivities will begin with registration at 8 a.m. and the Walk will begin at 9 a.m.
