

Special Olympics from page A3

cial olympians as participants. The idea of pairing them with local celebrities and pros was recently added on. "On My Own in Ohio has a golf outing fundraiser every year," Korzon said. "Incorporating a special olympics golf team was just a natural."

The charity golf outing is loaded with contests and prizes. There are prizes for team scores, longest drive, closest to the pin, a putting contest and a team skins contest. There's also a hole-in-one contest on the ninth hole. Anyone to sink a hole-in-one will take home a 1998 Lincoln Navigator courtesy of Park Motor Sales-Lincoln Mercury. Free travel including airfare and a cruise and a set of golf clubs can be won for a hole-in-one on other par 3 holes.

The outing costs $150 per player which includes lunch, 18 holes with a cart, open bar, dinner, silent auction and prizes. Non-golfers are invited to purchase the dinner package which includes open bar and a silent auction for $40.

Sponsors can participate on many levels, including Gold, Silver, Bronze, Individual Hole or Team basis.

On My Own and The Optimist Club are non-profit organizations. For more information on the golf outing, call 248-645-4836.

Helping hand: Becky Henkin receives advice on her swing from Betsy Soma, who was helping with a lesson at The Heathers.

Sand blaster: Drew Hoening practices his sand shot at The Heathers.

Back to the basics: PGA golf professional Paul Fichter goes over some of the basics of using a driver with a class of attentive students at The Heathers.
