gion, even if sometimes they end up being the wrong choices.

For instance, some people may choose to become part of some far-out cult.

Such a choice may even cost them their lives, but it is still their choice. Part of freedom is the freedom to make mistakes and to mess things up. As Americans, we say that we are entitled to our mistakes as well as our successes. These mistakes may be costly but there is no freedom without them.

Your religious choice is a serious one. It has consequences for the way in which you live your entire life. You are privileged to be able to freely make that choice.

May you choose with the wisdom and with faith to guide you.
