Pick Tecumseh For Test Of Flu Vaccine

About 3,000 schoolchildren in Tecumseh, Mich., will be immunized against the Hong Kong flu under arrangements being hurriedly made by the University of Michigan School of Public Health.

The first shots will be administered to almost the entire population of the Tecumseh city schools.

Spokesmen for the University say speed is essential to take advantage of a "once-in-a-lifetime opportunity" to combine health protection for the children with a test of a theory for halting epidemics before they begin.

These two projects overlap only in Lenawee County, ECHO involves the people of Adrian, some 10 miles from Tecumseh.
The third key factor is that there is little or no natural immunity to Hong Kong flu.
Anybody can get it, if exposed.
A worldwide pandemic is now under way.

SCIENTISTS HAVE LONG
theorized that they could halt certain epidemics by immunizing children. Under this theory, youngsters may be the "vaccination" whereby the disease spreads through a community.
Their close associations at school and at play may be the key to transmitting the disease to epidemic levels.

Should this be true, the U-M scientists say, an epidemic could be blocked by immunizing the children. This is the theory that will now be tested.
Through arrangements with the National Institutes of Health, the first production lot of vaccine will be used to immunize Tecumseh children against Hong Kong flu, in the weeks ahead, when influenza sweeps across the country, ECHO will measure its impact on Adrian and elsewhere in Michigan.
U-M's Tecumseh Project will measure the effect in Tecumseh schools. Statistical variations between the two are expected to reveal the "truth or falsity of the theory."

development of one-stop shop-

Fuel Safety Contest produced by the National Safety Council, ment with a fleet of 1,402 vehicles was awarded the Gold Certificate of Achievement in Chicago in the Gas Industry Division of the contest, and at ceremonies held in conjunction with the 55th National Safety Congress and Exposition.

The award is based on the

partment drivers operated 19,
