When riding on the harber steamboats use your ears. Then you will not need your ears are not you will not need your ears. Then you will not need your ears are not your brakes. By paying your ears the steamboard your neighbor it will the possible to pick up more innecurate information than in any other pixee in the city. The deck of a ferry or the rail of a steamer acts curiously on the human mind. If it does not know, it will risk a guess, and the wilder the guess the more willingly risked.

It is well known that salt water acts in freskish ways on the conscience. To some it brings an overwhelming impulse to get drunk; to others it brings a disposition to the freeest use of profanity; and still others, who would never think of fibbling from the windows of a railroad train (dear old get—lemen, and innocent young girls), the instant they pixed from the wharf he girt to tell the most shocking whoppers.—Boston Transcript.
