Farmington Observer Serving Farmington and Farmington Hills for 111 years

Take charge: Residents should continue to make noise about their flooding problems and the city should take action./A14

COMMUNITYLIFE

Vintage: You may not know it, but the first woman architect in Michigan, Emily Butter-field, hailed from Farm-ington. Butterfield, who died in 1958, was an author and artist./B1

SPORTS

Soccer preview: With All-Observer forward Tim Rais returning, the Farm-ington Falcons have an optimistic outlook for the 1998 boys soccer season./C1

City champions: Led by sophomore varsity substitute, North Farmington defeated its city rivals in the annual all-Farming-ton golf tournament./C1

(ND=X
Police and Fire	A14
Z Clearities Index	04
Real Estate	G4
Crossword	G5
Jobs	H4
Home & Service	J2
Automotive	J 5
M Opinion	A12-13
Community Life	Bı
■ Calendar	C5
B Real Estate	· F1

Farmington couple dies in crash

Steven and Colleen Maxson of Farmington shared a common love of motorcycles and died while riding of motorcycies and a control one.

That's how they will be remembered by their colleagues, family and friends, according to a co-worker.

These two people met on a motorcycle and that's how they died, "said Lucratla Wright, a Detroit police officer who worked with Steven Maxson for three years. "It was a lave story."

Maxson for three years. It was a love story."

Steven, 56, and Colleen, 54, were killed Saturday, Aug. 16, in Livingston County's Genon Township, near Howell, reportedly while riding to a motorcycle convention. The couple's cycle was insaded west toward Howell on Grand River when they were struck by a car pulling out of a cross street. They died at McPherson Hospital in Howell.

The couple was wearing helmets and had the right of way, according to police reports. The car that struck the couple was reportedly driven by

Please see CRASH, A4

School trustee Joe Svoke resigns

So long: Not want-ing to bur-den his colleagues or the communi-ty with potential conflict of interest, Joseph Svoke announces his resig-nation Tuesday night.

Farmington school board Secretary Joe Svoke resigned after accepting a post with an electrical firm that does business with the district. A search for his successor began immediately.

For Joseph Svoke, serving on the Farmington Board of Education has always meant taking the high road, doing the right thing and asking the doing the right thing and asking the "tough questions."

It never meant putting the district and community into a potentially thorny position. That is why Svoke, with two years remaining on his second four-year term, resigned during Tuesday night's board meeting. The decision was prompted by Svoke's mid-July hiring with RGI Electric of Farmington Hills, a firm that is doing bond issue construction-related work at Farmington High School.

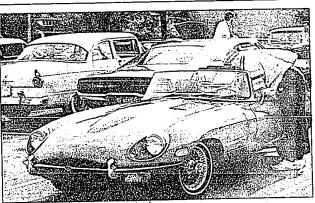

See related story page A3

See related story page A3

"Educational leadership and budget control must stay at the top of your list," said Svoke, holding back obvious motion as he read a prepared statement. You don't have the time or the nergy to be wasting, fighting and addressing any perception of an integrity problem."

As Svoke read the statement, others on the board ast stumed, even though board President Cathy Webb knew Sunday night about the pending resign.

Please see SVOKE, A3

Proud: Richard Fritz drove from Redford Township to enter his 1970 Jaguar E-type in the "Cruise the Grand" in downtown Farmington Monday night.

Hoping for a

"Cruise the Grand" display in downtown Farmington is one Roger Ratkowski hopes becomes a classic itself.

sic itself.

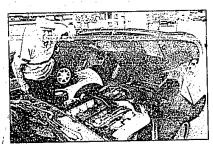

Ratkowski said Monday night's classic car cruise drew 267 registered cars – significantly more than the usual 290-220 vehicles the summer-long events have asual 260-220 vehicles the summer-long events have attracted.

The one-time deal of having the cars on State Street really helped a lot. Ratkowski said Tuesday. "It was a great learning experience."

Last weekend's Woodward Dream Cruise also was a factor in the larger crowd, said Ratkowski, owner of 'Cruise the Grand' co-sponsor The Pasta Stop. Page's Food & Spirits is also a co-sponsor.

In order to accommodate the vintage vehicles, State was shut down one hour earlier than for the previous

Take a look: Richard Fritz shows off the engine of his Jaguar while Richard Larabee (at right) pops the hood of wife Marsha's 1955 Chevy pickup truck. The city closed State Street an hour carlier Monday to accommodate the vintage vehicles.

Hills teen won't forget

Like baby boomers remember where they were when John F. Kennedy was shot and others remember where they were when the space shuttle Chailenger exploded, Steve Economy Jr. will always remember where he was when two police officers were killed in the line of duty at the U.S. Capitol.

The Farmington Itilia teen, following in the footsteps of his older brethers from and John, was working as a senting service with the service when a couple kids and the service killed in John and the service killed in the said.

"Everyone was in a panic in my dorm room. We couldn't Stephen Economy Senate page tooting on television.

A brief panic was felt in the dorm room when they realized one of their fellow pages was sent on a run but had gotten the destination wrong, nearly putting him in the shooting scene, Economy said.

That same panic was felt several states away in Fermington Hills, when Economy's mother Tuln feared her son might have been hurt - or worse.

"I just happened to turn on the television and see, the news (of the shoot-

Please see TEEN, A4

Summor Job: Steve Economy displays the identification badge used in his job as a capi-tol page.

believe what happened. The kids were real stunned. We watched the same (footage on television) for two or three hours."

Marathoners to go the distance in city

Whenever bombings occur, such as last week's in Ornagh, Northern Ireland, someone typically loses an arm or leg. An event planned for this October in downtown Farmington intends to help make it possible to help such as possible.

The event, dubbed the "ZZAM 24 Hour Marathon of Hope," will take place from 5 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 25, until 6 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 25, to raise awareness and donations for monprofit organization which strives to fit child amputees with artificial imbs.

Farmer Farmington High School.

limbs.
Former Farmington High School
All-State distance runner David Clinard told city council members
Monday night that he has his sights set on completing 100 miles during the marathon.
"If you did the math," Clinard explained, "that's a 14- or 15minute mile. It's plausible."
Clinard and other runners will solicit sponsorships for donations

☐ The 'ZZAM 24 Hour Marathon of Hope' will be 5 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 24, o p.m. Saturday, Oct. 24, until 5 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 25, to raise awareness and donations for Make-A-Difference, a Detroitbased nonprofit organization that strives to fit child amoutees with artificial limbs.

and the roster of participants could grow to between 25:59.

"We think we can draw a lot of attention to a very fine community and a very fine cause," said David Williams during Monday night's Farmington City Council meeting, where the request to hold the

Please see RUN, A2