The Hawks sandwiched a pair of layups by Burt and Hall around a three by Wilson to cut the deficit to three. Major's free throws with 1:29 left proved to be the difference, giving the Chiefs a 63-48 lead.

Jurt scored on a putback of his own miss but failed to convert a three-point play. However, Hall grabbed that rebound and scored to put Harrison within a point, 53-52.

The usually-steady Cortellini missed two free throws with 10.5 seconds remaining, leaving the door open for the Hawks when Burt landed the rebound.

Following a Harrison timeout with 5.3 seconds left, Burt missed a shot from the wing, and Wilson's shot off the rebound also failed to drop.

The loss followed a similar game Tuesday in which the Hawks rallied from a 20-point deficit but lost to North Farmington, 47-45.

"It's only frustrating if, when you lose a close game, you didn't have a chance," Teachman said. "We were still in control of our own destiny, although we got down 10 again."

"That seems to be the legacy of Harrison basketball the last few years — that refusal-to-lose thing. Begin-to-win is something we have to have."

The Chiefs managed to stay in the game and win despite losing Scott Samulski in the first quarter with a shoulder injury and Waidmann and McLean being limited defensively due to foul trouble.

"Our bench with Nate Rau, Oliver Wolcott, Juan Cortes and Nick Cabanatan gave us a big lift and a chance to win the game," Young said.

"We had three offensive post players out defensively down the stretch. (The help from our bench) was huge and allowed us to beat a real good Farmington Harrison team."

Canton led all the way, although Harrison managed to tie the score four times in the middle quarters.

The Chiefs were ahead 13-8 after one and 29-25 at halftime. Hall scored consecutive baskets late in the third to force a 37-37 tie, but McLean and Major had driving layups to put Canton on top going into the finale, 41-37.

"We think we can compete with good teams if we play five-man defense," Young said. "We did a better job rebounding and we had better rotation to get help on the ball. We did well versus their half-court trapping defense; we passed the ball inside-out better, and that gave us a chance to play better defense."

Teachman started the same players (Burt, Wilson, Hall, Reed and Dave Pesci) despite being down 18-5 early against North, saying they were the best practice players.

"This time we got the effort out of our starters," Teachman said. "The problem was the defense off the bench. The guys off the bench were reacting instead of acting, which gave (the Chiefs) easy looks at the basket."

"Our goal is still to win 20 games. It's going to be tough now. North, (Plymouth) Salem and (Walled Lake) Western have to play a lot of tough games, so anything can happen."

Canton made 14 of 19 free throws, Harrison 13 of 18.

NOTRE DAME 59, REDFORD CC 58: Harper Woods Notre Dame stormed back in the final four minutes with 16 unanswered points Friday to give the host Fighting Irish (5-3, 3-1) the Catholic League Central Division victory over stunned Redford Catholic Central (5-4, 2-2).

Chris Raymon led the winners with 20 points. Steve Biggs added 12 points and 13 rebounds.

CC, which squandered a 15-point lead down the stretch, got a game-high 21 from senior guard Dan Joss.

have a great year-round weight program, so they'll bulk me up. You eat a lot up there, too."

Hoad also visited Northwood Institute before going to Grand Valley on Jan. 18 at which time he and 16 other potential recruits were put through a workout that included weight lifting, agility drills and running for time.

Hoad, who has qualified academically, and the Grand Valley coaches were mutually impressed. He gave the Lakers a commitment that day and canceled visits to Saginaw Valley, Ferris State and Mount Union (Ohio).

"I was pretty impressed with Grand Valley and liked it right away," Hoad said. "They have a lot of brand new stuff. They treated all the players well. They took us around to all the facilities and gave us a tour of the campus."

"They already have a proven program. The last two years they lost in the first round of the playoffs. They want to become a national power. They want to go farther than that, and I want to help them do that."

Hoad, who also caught 54 passes for 1,116 yards and 10 touchdowns in his prep career, thinks he'll be redshirted next season, which he can accept, but he wouldn't mind a chance to play right away.

"It would be a learning experience as far as learning their schemes and how the defense works," Hoad said, if he can only practice with the team.

"If I don't get redshirted my first year, I'd like to get in there and get some playing time, show them what I can do and what kind of player I am."
