field goal attempt that nearly hit a teammate in the rear end is the most embarrassing. Yeah, Lusk is a throwback, but doesn't that word suggest he's a passer more than a kicker, anyway?

The St. Mary's game was also one of his more troubling. "I couldn't sleep for two nights," he said, due to rug burns on his elbows caused by the Pontiac Silverdome turf. After a 12-7 win over Dearborn Fordson the following weekend, Lusk needed a portable telephone to talk to anyone on the phone. For two days, he was in the family jacuzzi, treating his aching body.

At least Lusk's mother had some practice watching a loved one absorb hits on the football field before Dave took up the sport in the seventh grade for the NFWB little league team. She met her husband at the University of Detroit, where he was the starting quarterback on one of the last Titans' football teams.

"She saw me get hit a few times," said Bob Lusk, a U-D quarterback from 1967-68, using an understatement.

It was now to Dave as a kid when he heard U-D had a football team at one time, let alone a father who played there.

"U of D is more known for basketball," Dave said. "I was kind of surprised."

Lusk enjoyed playing sports before starting kindergarten. He was always in the backyard hitting balls off a baseball tee, shooting baskets with his sisters in the driveway or throwing footballs with his father.

When no one was around, Dave would throw footballs at trees. "I didn't throw it with the laces; I'd just throw it," he said. "My dad taught me how to throw it right."

Lusk always wanted a younger brother and maybe that's why he has a special bond with nephews Michael, 7, and Joey, 6. His niece Mary Kate, 3, is also a regular at his games.

"Sometimes they paint 'CC' or the number '16' on their faces," their grandfather said. "The boys are already committed to CC."

Their uncle takes commitment to another level.
