Fighting fatigue and facing challenges on several fronts, Farmington Harrison's track-and-field teams tapped their reserve strengths Monday to produce a pair of victories in the annual public school city meets.

The Hawks overcame the physical demands of a rugged, five-day schedule and emotional letdown from mutual disappointments to capture the boys and girls championships at North Farmington.

TRACK & FIELD

The boys competition resulted in one of the closest finishes in meet history. Just five points separated all three schools.

Harrison had 61 points to reclaim the title it lost to Farmington a year ago. The Hawks have won seven of the last nine years.

North Farmington, undefeated in dual meets, was the runner-up with 59 points; Farmington had 56.

The girls contest was nearly as close. The trophy returns to Harrison, which edged defending champ North by four points, 69-65, after a one-year absence. Farmington was a not-too-distant third with 49 points.

The Hawks have won four of the last six girls titles. They were winless in dual meets last year and third in the city meet, "so we had to come off the way back," Harrison coach Mark Babcock said.

"It's a tribute to our seniors and their determination to make things right. They said this year would be different and so far they've delivered.

"They're directing the ship and leading us, and that's one reason things went the way they did today."

The Hawks were stunned by a 70-67 loss to Walled Lake Western in a dual

The best track meets are decided by the last event. Sunday's Annual Observerland Relays fit that bill.

Down 21 points to Redford Catholic Central with six events remaining, Plymouth Canton won three of the last six events to edge the Shamrocks and Farmington Harrison to win its first crown since 1980.

"Because of the order of the events, I knew we were going to score well at the end," Canton coach Bob Richardson said. "If it was close, we were going to have a chance."

Canton won the meet with 68 points, and Harrison was second with 64; CC finished third (62), North Farmington fourth (49) and two-time defending champion Plymouth Salem fifth (42).

"I told Bob before the final results were announced that I didn't care who won between us," Harrison coach John Reed said. "Bob has been a great friend over the years, and I was just as happy to see his kids win."

CC, on the strength of its field events and distance teams, led most of the meet, taking a 61-40 lead over both Canton and Salem with six events to go. Then Canton got hot with wins in the sprint medley and shuttle hurdles relays, with Harrison getting a win in the 400 relay and seconds in the 100 dash and shuttle hurdles.

OBSERVERLAND

With two events to be completed — the pole vault and 1,600 relay — the Shamrocks still held a 62-56 lead over Harrison; Canton's total stood at 64.

Lightning then struck twice for the Chiefs within minutes. First, Jordan Chapman, Brian Page and Kevin Palmer led Canton to an upset win in the pole vault over the Hawks as the two teams moved past CC to share the lead at 64. Then Canton finished fourth in the 1,600 relay, while Harrison was sixth and CC didn't place.

When the standings were announced and the Hawks were named the second-place team, the Chiefs exploded.

"The seniors kept us going, but we had a huge day," Richardson said. "We set four school records and had several kids who set personal bests."

"Jerry Gains had an awesome day. He ran his 800 split in the distance medley in 1:57.5, anchored the sprint medley relay in 50.0 in his 400 split and ran 50.4 in his split of the 1,600 relay. He had a huge day."

So did CC's Mike Morris. He had the best throws of the day in the discus (151-8) and shot put (53-11). He joined with teammates Jeff Duweke and Charlie Rozum in setting a meet record in the discus at 439-11.

Record-setting run

Sprinter's speed: North Farmington senior Anthony Beal set a school record in the 400-meter dash Monday in the annual city meet, finishing the race in 49.7 seconds.

Catholic League title remains with Mercy

You won't find many teams that can make the unique claim Farmington Hills Mercy can in the sport of girls golf.

The Marlins remain the only ones to ever win the Catholic League tournament championship.

Mercy extended an already-impressive streak by winning its ninth in a row Tuesday at St. John's Golf Course in Plymouth.

"It's just wonderful," Mercy coach Vicky Kowalski said. "It's become kind of a tradition at Mercy — 'You'd better win the Catholic League!'"

GIRLS GOLF

"I thought we showed our depth, because we placed five girls in the top seven. Our last girl actually finished 14th overall, which is not too shabby, either."

The Marlins didn't win as easily as they did a year ago when they shot 322 at St. John's and finished 46 strokes ahead of runner-up Harper Woods Regina.

But they still won by a rather comfortable margin, shooting a season-best team score of 335 and beating

Regina by 18 strokes this time.

"Maybe we thought we were going to win, but the Regina coach thought they could take us," Kowalski said, adding the course was different this year. St. John's has completed renovation work on its now-27-hole facility.

"Four holes are brand new and a lot of stuff is renumbered. So a lot of the girls were seeing a new golf course, because we haven't played there this year."
